Another Probe Toward Third Digger Planned

HAZLETON, Pa. (AP)—A third attempt to sink an escape shaft to two trapped miners began Thursday night and drilling of a smaller hole toward a third miner was imminent.

Rescue workers began another 12-inch hole toward David Fellin, 58, and Henry Throne, 28, at about 6 p.m. EDT.

In the first hour, the drill bit went down 40 feet. Then it hit rock and slowed considerably.

A diamond bit was prepared to drill a three- to four-inch hole toward where Louis Bova, 42, the third miner, is believed to be.

The men were caught more than 300 feet underground Aug. 13.

"I just know he will come out alive."

Those were the words of Mrs. Anna Fellin, wife of David, but they also summed up the spirit and determination of the rescue crews after the second escape hole to Fellin and Throne failed. No one admitted the possibility of failure.

Missed By Few Feet

The giant drilling rig, as tall as a 10-story building, was moved into position for again driving a 12-inch bit toward the underground pocket about 14 feet long and 9 feet wide that holds Fellin and Throne. It apparently missed by a few feet on the second try Thursday morning.

The other rig, much smaller, was fitted with a diamond drill to probe about 25 feet further away. The other miners have said Bova is about that distance from them and separated from them by a mass of debris reaching the ceiling of the small passageway to which they fled when the main shaft caved in. There has been no report of contact with Bova since Tuesday night.

The second escape hole to Fellin and Throne failed just as it seemed certain to succeed.

For just a moment, morale of the rescue crew seemed to all but crack. That was about 8 a.m., when the drill began bringing up white dust.

To the experts, this meant they had gone past the chamber holding Throne and Fellin.

Heartbreaking Moment

Workers stared in disbelief. It seemed impossible. They had been confident throughout the night that they were going in the right direction.

On a nearby hill, overlooking the tense scene, Mrs. Fellin clapped her hands to her mouth, appeared to groan inwardly, and turned her back on the operation.

Gordon Smith, deputy state secretary of mining, relayed the word to Fellin and Throne by way of the microphone in the existing 6-inch lifeline. Bova is about 25 feet away from them, separated by a mass of debris. None of the food and supplies sent to the others through the lifeline hole has reached him.

Smith suggested a new escape hole be started and asked Fellin—who as co-owner knows every nook and cranny of the mine—for his ideas on where to drill.

"Why not ream the food hole?" asked Fellin.

"Do you think that's the right thing to do?" countered Smith. "We'll think about it, but I believe it would be easier to move the big rig and that it would be faster to drill another 12-inch hole. It seems safer, too, since there would be no loss of communications and food supplies."

"All right," said Fellin.

Buried Treasure In Milk Cans

Strauss Calls For Test Ban Reservations

Former AEC Chief, Ex-Commissioner Have Misgivings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two former atomic energy commissioners, Lewis L. Strauss and Dr. Willard F. Libby, expressed deep concern Thursday about restraints in the limited nuclear test-ban treaty.

"Worried, reluctant acquiescence" was the way Libby, an AEC commissioner from 1954 to 1959, described his view to a three-committee Senate hearing. "It's a very close question," he said, but on balance if he were a senator he probably would vote to ratify the pact.

First, Libby said, the senators should examine to their fullest satisfaction as far as possible whether Soviet possession of the 100-megaton bomb gives the Russians "a commanding advantage."

Reservations Proposed

Strauss, AEC chairman from 1953 to 1958, was more critical and left no doubt that he opposes ratification, but he conceded that the Senate shortly will approve it. He predicted the Soviet Union will cheat and urged the Senate to insist on these reservations to the pact:

—That nuclear weapons may be used without notice "should any of our allies or any of the free nations be subjected to armed aggression."

—That there be free use of nuclear power to construct harbors, canals and other peaceful works both in American territory or in that of friendly countries which request it.

Canal Plans Jeopardized

Libby similarly expressed concern that the treaty might limit too much this country's Plowshare program of seeking peaceful uses of nuclear power. He commented, without elaboration, that nuclear experts "are about ready to dig a canal by nuclear blasts."

Strauss said a sea-level canal across the isthmus of Panama is "a probably strategic requirement in view of the vulnerability of the Panama Canal with its locks and narrow channels." But he said the treaty would prohibit this development by nuclear explosions unless the Senate adds a reservation.

S. Viet Nam Chief, Lodge Due To Clash

Saigon Stands Pat Against Buddhists; Envoy To U.S. Quits

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — President Ngo Dinh Diem's government appears headed for a direct diplomatic clash with the United States, its military ally and financial angel, over the lightning crackdown on Diem's Buddhist opponents.

Even as Henry Cabot Lodge arrived in Saigon on Thursday as the new ambassador of the angered Kennedy administration, communiques indicated the Saigon regime intends to stay on course in combatting the political-religious crisis.

Strong words are expected when Diem, a Roman Catholic, meets Lodge, who for eight years was the chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations.

The U.S. State Department has denounced the Buddhist crackdown and said, "The United States deplores repressive actions of this nature."

Among others who deplored it were Diem's ambassador to Washington, Tran Van Chuong, and Chuong's wife, South Vietnamese observer to the United Nations. Both resigned.

Parents Of "Dragon Lady"

They are the parents of Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu, South Viet Nam's First Lady who is the sister-in-law of the bachelor president.

A Confucianist, Chuong cabled Diem: "I cannot go on representing a government which ignores my advice and of which I disapprove." His wife, a Buddhist, also tendered her resignation from Washington.

But statements by Diem's regime suggested it is standing pat.

"The government is strongly determined," one communique said, "not to tolerate exploitation of religion for political purposes, turning of pagodas — high places for prayer, mediation and sanctification—into quarters for agitation and propaganda, terrorism and plotting against the security of the state."

The regime noted differences among the hundreds of monks and nuns arrested by troops and police in shot-punctuated raids on Buddhist pagodas in the first measures of martial law before dawn Wednesday.

Over 1,000 Arrested

The communique indicated those who pledge cooperation will be released. But it said "those who have actually plotted against the security of the state while the latter is at war" against the Communist uprising will remain in custody.

Buddhists have denied any connection with communism throughout their antigovernment campaign, avowedly aimed toward religious freedom and social justice. But another communique called the alleged plotters "yellow-robed Reds."

There still were no precise figures on the number of monks and nuns arrested and the number of casualties in the pagoda raids. A government spokesman told U.S. authorities more than 1,000 persons were held.

The government denied any had been killed.

Eyewitnesses, however, said one monk was shot dead at the Xa Loi pagoda in Saigon and estimates of the dead at that one Buddhist center ranged up to five or six. About 30 were wounded.

Bill To Head Off Rail Strike Will Be Ready Today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., said Thursday that his Senate Commerce Committee will have a bill ready Friday to avert a nationwide railroad strike next week.

Magnuson, speaking to reporters after an hour and 15-minute session Thursday afternoon, said he hoped it would be "satisfactory to both sides." The group is scheduled to meet at 9:30 a.m. EDT to work on the measure.

The senator, chairman of the committee, said the legislation would be designed to provide a "reasonable arbitration of the disputes involved and keep the railroads of the United States running."

It was likely that the final congressional vote on rail legislation would come on Wednesday, only hours before the new work rules are due to be imposed.

Rep. Oren Harris, D-Ark., said his House Commerce Committee would meet Monday. He said it would probably report out a bill on that day with the measure taken up by the Rules Committee on Tuesday.

Harris said the House would probably vote Wednesday.

Magnuson said Thursday's meetings paved the way for an agreement Friday. He said the discussion brought out the sense of the group on several proposals.

Magnuson did not disclose any details but had said earlier that four different approaches had been weighed in an effort to avert the strike deadline at midnight Wednesday.

The rail dispute has resisted the best efforts of Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz to negotiate a settlement. It was tossed into the lap of a reluctant Congress after the collapse of the government's latest mediation effort Wednesday night.

Israel Reports New Shooting Along Border

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Israel Thursday reported new shooting along the tense Israeli-Syrian border as the U.N. Security Council was summoned to take up the problem Friday afternoon.

Israel's chief delegate, Michael S. Comay told newsmen he had received word that Syrian forces had fired during Wednesday night on two Israeli settlements in the central demilitarized zone. He did not indicate whether there were casualties.

The 11-nation council meeting was originally requested by Israel Tuesday night. Syria followed Wednesday with its request. Each charged violations of the 1949 armistice agreement and aggressive acts.

Meanwhile, word came from Jerusalem that Israel had agreed conditionally to accept a proposal for U.N. inspection of the border areas, provided Syria also would agree. The proposal was submitted to the two governments earlier in the week by Lt. Gen. Odd Bull of Norway, chief of the U.N. truce observation organization in Palestine.

X15 Pilot 'Mad' Despite Record

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—Joseph A. Walker piloted the X15 rocket research plane a record 66½ miles into space Thursday, but came back chagrined because he was almost two miles short of his goal.

"I felt like stepping off the wing," he said later.

Walker blamed a new instrument called an altitude predictor, designed to tell the pilot when to shut down the engine or lower the climb angle to avoid overshooting his mark.

Thursday's flight was the first test of the new gadget.

Walker reached 351,000-feet, 2,300 feet above the record of 348,700 he set July 19. His goal was 360,000 feet.

The flight plan called for Walker to maintain a climb angle of 48 degrees. Because of the faulty instrument, he lowered this to 44 degrees.

School Closing Appeal Heard At Birmingham

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—An appeal to close public schools here in the face of desegregation Sept. 4 was heard Thursday by the city school board, but the board took no immediate action.

A U.S. District Court judge has approved a school board plan to limit desegregation to the 12th grade this fall.

School Supt. Theo R. Wright said any appeal to close the schools as public institutions would have to come in the form of a petition. A spokesman for a newly organized citizens group said such a petition would be circulated.

As racial tension simmered following the dynamiting of a Negro attorney's house Tuesday night, a federal judge said he would call for a grand jury investigation of charges in a similar bombing last May.

U. S. Dist. Judge Clarence W. Allgood said he would ask the investigation when the grand jury meets Monday. He said he wants the jurors to consider charges against a Negro who said two Birmingham policemen were involved in the May dynamiting—one of two which set off rioting here.

U.S. Dist. Atty. Macon L. Weaver said Wednesday that the FBI had determined that the charge was false.

Mrs. Mary Lou Holt, secretary of the United Americans for Conservative Government, said her group would petition to close the schools and operate them as private institutions. She said she represents about 6,300 persons.

The appeal was based on a state law which gives the school board the authority to close any school facing integration; to sell it to private interests, and to pay tuition grants for students who want to attend segregated private schools.

$351,875 Hoard Missed By Yeggs

MADISON, N.Y. (AP)—Thieves missed it. A wealthy widow said she did not know she had it. But stunned state police found it—a $351,875 cash hoard in a sturdy compartment of a safe previously looted of an estimated $250,000.

State police announced Thursday they had found the surprise package after burning away three inches of steel plating because locksmiths had been unable to open the compartment. The thieves, believed to have been professional safecrackers, had tried but failed to open it Sunday, troopers said.

The widow, Mrs. Grove Hinman, previously had told troopers she did not believe the compartment of her basement safe contained anything of value and that she never had the combination.

An investigator said it was assumed that the money, most of it $100 bills, had been stored there by Mrs. Hinman's husband, who died in 1961.

Hurricane East Of Puerto Rico

MIAMI (UPI) — The season's second tropical storm grew to hurricane intensity Thursday and churned the Atlantic Ocean east of Puerto Rico with 80 mile an hour winds.

In an advisory, the San Juan, P. R., weather bureau located Beulah near latitude 19.0 north and longitude 58.3 west or about 500 miles east of San Juan and about 1,500 miles southeast of Florida.

The storm was moving between west-northwest and northwest at about 12 miles per hour and the weather bureau said this course should take Beulah about 175 miles northeast of Saint Maarten in the Leeward Islands late Friday afternoon.

Based on reports from hurricane hunter planes and ships, weathermen estimated the storm's top winds at 75 to 80 mph. Gale force winds spread from the center for 200 miles to the north and 75 miles to the south.

Diggers Find Over $500,000 Under Ohio Mill

TROY, Ohio (AP)—Last July, a wealthy but eccentric businessman told relatives only hours before his death that he had buried all his money beneath one of the feed mills he owned.

They thought he might be delirious.

But R. S. Altman, 76, late owner of Altman Enterprises which controlled feed and grain mills in a wide area, was not.

A fortune in buried treasure—in excess of half a million dollars in $5, $10 and $20 bills — has poured into the laps of the heirs, Altman's son, George, Irwin, Pa., and daughter, Mrs. Mary Jane Ward, Troy.

No one has said, officially, just how much money. But in addition to two 10-gallon milk cans, a third five-gallon can, all stuffed to the brim with hard cash—more was reported found in safety deposit boxes.

Workmen at the mill, under the guard of deputy sheriffs, began digging Tuesday at the Altman feed plant four miles north of Troy.

Eight hours later they made their first strike — the two 10-gallon cans. Bank officials after a count estimated the cans contained about $350,000 in bills.

Digging continued, and at 9:15 a.m. Thursday, a third can, the five-gallon one, was unearthed. Shortly after this, officials of the First National Bank of Troy said the total finds were "in excess of $500,000."

The money, tied in bundles two to three inches thick, was wrapped in copies of the Dayton Daily News dated Oct. 10-15, 1945. The cans were not sealed, but the money was undamaged.

One of the mill employes recalled an incident of five or six years ago that fits into the treasure picture.

The man told Sheriff's Deputy Jerry Chase that a section of the mill timbers had splintered, requiring some excavation to repair. The employe recalled that Altman sat and watched the workmen for five days while they completed the task.

He said he now realized that they dug within five feet of where Altman had buried the money.

New Aerial Giant Unveiled By U.S.

MARIETTA, Ga. (AP) — The world's largest jet transport plane—hailed as a key to the peace and security of the free world—was ceremoniously rolled from its hangar Thursday.

"This is a good moment for the United States," said President Kennedy as he pressed a gold key at the White House opening the hangar door for the Lockheed C141 Starlifter.

He added that it marks the beginning of "a great new effort to strengthen the security of the United States" when "freedom is under challenge all over the world."

The four-engine jet is designed to fly any ocean nonstop at 550 miles an hour with 154 troops and a 70,000-pound cargo. The plane was the first of a billion-dollar Air Force order for 127 of the aerial giants with the prospects that more will be contracted for.

Pickets, N.Y. Police Clash At City Hall

NEW YORK (UPI) — Violence broke out on the steps of City Hall Thursday when a group of chained-together civil rights demonstrators taunted Mayor Robert F. Wagner. Police arrested nine of them in a melee of flying fists.

Three policemen were injured including one who was believed to have suffered a broken arm.

Congress, With Little To Show So Far, Could Run Well Into Winter Months

WASHINGTON (AP)—Is President Kennedy's legislative program stuck in the bogs of Congress? Some critics say so. The White House and Democratic leaders say it isn't.

Congress has passed July 31—the suggested legal date for adjournment—with only a few bills of substance to show for it. This session will go on at least to Thanksgiving and perhaps to Christmas, the longest spell since the Congress of 1950.

"It seems to me that on the basis of the record to date," said Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., in a recent Senate speech, "we are assigning ourselves a unique niche in history as the biggest and longest running, slow-motion show to hit Washington in years. And I believe we are in grave danger of seeing ourselves dubbed the 'standstill' Congress, or worse."

Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts disagrees. "Congress is considering some of the most important bills that have come up in my career in Congress," he said in an interview. "I wish some had been reported out sooner, but the committees are working harder than any in my time, and I am confident that at the end of this Congress, we will have a very fine record."

Lawrence F. O'Brien, Kennedy's special assistant for congressional relations, said in an interview, "We are confident this Congress will enact a substantial portion of the President's legislative program in this session, including the tax bill, civil rights, area redevelopment agency amendments, legislation in the field of education, mental health and mental retardation, as well as many other important items—and the Senate will ratify the nuclear test ban treaty."

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois recently cited a study by Congressional Quarterly. It showed that by July 31, Congress had approved 19 of the Kennedy administration's 403 requests. Congressional Quarterly said this percentage of approval—4.7 per cent—was a record low.

The survey compared this 1963 rate with other sessions: By July 2, 1962, Congress had approved 7 per cent of Kennedy's requests; by May 5, 1961, Congress had approved 10 per cent of Kennedy's requests; by May 8, 1955, Congress had approved 13.7 per cent of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's requests.

House Gives Verbal OK To Aid Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Thursday night gave verbal approval to President Kennedy's $4.1-billion foreign aid authorization bill. Republican opponents were unable to cut it by one nickel.

However, a final roll-call vote was postponed until Friday when a Republican raised a technicality.

The Democratic leadership had no trouble beating GOP attempts to slash the President's contingency fund, the military assistance program and other sections of the bill.

This authorization bill merely sets a ceiling figure for the foreign aid program.

Yugo And Soviet Bosses Apparently Bury Hatchet

BELGRADE (UPI)—"Let's bury the past" remarks by Yugoslavia President Marshal Tito to Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev were made public Thursday while the two Communist leaders were visiting earthquake - ruined Skopje.

Khrushchev and Tito flew to the devastated city in southern Yugoslavia in separate U.S. - made DC6b transports. They drove through the ruins of the once-proud capital of Macedonia in a white Cadillac convertible.

During their five-hour visit to Skopje, the official Tanjug News Agency released the text of a speech made by Tito at a dinner with the Soviet premier Wednesday night.

A Western diplomat, commenting on the speech, said "Khrushchev lost China, but he seems to be regaining Yugoslavia."

Western observers agreed Tito's remarks appeared to spell the end of the years-long bitter feud between Belgrade and Moscow.

Observers said the remarks were warmest by Tito for the Soviets since the late Josef Stalin expelled him from the world Communist movement for pursuing an independent brand of communism.

"During the course of the past few years, especially in recent times, the relations between the Soviet Union and Yugoslavia have been developing in the spirit of best mutual understanding and good cooperation on the government level," the Yugoslav leader declared.

"We did not always act quite correctly. It is good we are able to correct our mistakes. It is dangerous when that is not done," Tito said.

Eric Johnston, Film Czar, Dies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Eric A. Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association of America and a public servant for three U.S. presidents, died Thursday at a Washington hospital. He was 66.

The famed "movie czar" had entered George Washington University Hospital on June 17 after he suffered a stroke, and became gradually weaker from the effects of cerebral thrombosis.

Born in the nation's capital and long a resident of Spokane, Wash., Johnston administered the motion picture industry's moral code of self-censorship for 18 years.

Head of several big business firms, Johnston also handled various government assignments for former Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman, and once went to the Middle East as a special ambassador for former President Dwight D. Eisenhower. He was a former president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Hurricane East Of Puerto Rico

MIAMI (UPI) — The season's second tropical storm grew to hurricane intensity Thursday and churned the Atlantic Ocean east of Puerto Rico with 80 mile an hour winds.

In an advisory, the San Juan, P. R., weather bureau located Beulah near latitude 19.0 north and longitude 58.3 west or about 500 miles east of San Juan and about 1,500 miles southeast of Florida.

The storm was moving between west-northwest and northwest at about 12 miles per hour and the weather bureau said this course should take Beulah about 175 miles northeast of Saint Maarten in the Leeward Islands late Friday afternoon.

Based on reports from hurricane hunter planes and ships, weathermen estimated the storm's top winds at 75 to 80 mph. Gale force winds spread from the center for 200 miles to the north and 75 miles to the south.

Diggers Find Over $500,000 Under Ohio Mill

TROY, Ohio (AP)—Last July, a wealthy but eccentric businessman told relatives only hours before his death that he had buried all his money beneath one of the feed mills he owned.

They thought he might be delirious.

But R. S. Altman, 76, late owner of Altman Enterprises which controlled feed and grain mills in a wide area, was not.

A fortune in buried treasure—in excess of half a million dollars in $5, $10 and $20 bills — has poured into the laps of the heirs, Altman's son, George, Irwin, Pa., and daughter, Mrs. Mary Jane Ward, Troy.

No one has said, officially, just how much money. But in addition to two 10-gallon milk cans, a third five-gallon can, all stuffed to the brim with hard cash—more was reported found in safety deposit boxes.

Workmen at the mill, under the guard of deputy sheriffs, began digging Tuesday at the Altman feed plant four miles north of Troy.

Eight hours later they made their first strike — the two 10-gallon cans. Bank officials after a count estimated the cans contained about $350,000 in bills.

Digging continued, and at 9:15 a.m. Thursday, a third can, the five-gallon one, was unearthed. Shortly after this, officials of the First National Bank of Troy said the total finds were "in excess of $500,000."

The money, tied in bundles two to three inches thick, was wrapped in copies of the Dayton Daily News dated Oct. 10-15, 1945. The cans were not sealed, but the money was undamaged.

One of the mill employes recalled an incident of five or six years ago that fits into the treasure picture.

The man told Sheriff's Deputy Jerry Chase that a section of the mill timbers had splintered, requiring some excavation to repair. The employe recalled that Altman sat and watched the workmen for five days while they completed the task.

He said he now realized that they dug within five feet of where Altman had buried the money.

House Gives Verbal OK To Aid Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Thursday night gave verbal approval to President Kennedy's $4.1-billion foreign aid authorization bill. Republican opponents were unable to cut it by one nickel.

However, a final roll-call vote was postponed until Friday when a Republican raised a technicality.

The Democratic leadership had no trouble beating GOP attempts to slash the President's contingency fund, the military assistance program and other sections of the bill.

This authorization bill merely sets a ceiling figure for the foreign aid program.

Strauss Calls For Test Ban Reservations

Former AEC Chief, Ex-Commissioner Have Misgivings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two former atomic energy commissioners, Lewis L. Strauss and Dr. Willard F. Libby, expressed deep concern Thursday about restraints in the limited nuclear test-ban treaty.

"Worried, reluctant acquiescence" was the way Libby, an AEC commissioner from 1954 to 1959, described his view to a three-committee Senate hearing. "It's a very close question," he said, but on balance if he were a senator he probably would vote to ratify the pact.

First, Libby said, the senators should examine to their fullest satisfaction as far as possible whether Soviet possession of the 100-megaton bomb gives the Russians "a commanding advantage."

Reservations Proposed

Strauss, AEC chairman from 1953 to 1958, was more critical and left no doubt that he opposes ratification, but he conceded that the Senate shortly will approve it. He predicted the Soviet Union will cheat and urged the Senate to insist on these reservations to the pact:

—That nuclear weapons may be used without notice "should any of our allies or any of the free nations be subjected to armed aggression."

—That there be free use of nuclear power to construct harbors, canals and other peaceful works both in American territory or in that of friendly countries which request it.

Canal Plans Jeopardized

Libby similarly expressed concern that the treaty might limit too much this country's Plowshare program of seeking peaceful uses of nuclear power. He commented, without elaboration, that nuclear experts "are about ready to dig a canal by nuclear blasts."

Strauss said a sea-level canal across the isthmus of Panama is "a probably strategic requirement in view of the vulnerability of the Panama Canal with its locks and narrow channels." But he said the treaty would prohibit this development by nuclear explosions unless the Senate adds a reservation.

New Aerial Giant Unveiled By U.S.

MARIETTA, Ga. (AP) — The world's largest jet transport plane—hailed as a key to the peace and security of the free world—was ceremoniously rolled from its hangar Thursday.

"This is a good moment for the United States," said President Kennedy as he pressed a gold key at the White House opening the hangar door for the Lockheed C141 Starlifter.

He added that it marks the beginning of "a great new effort to strengthen the security of the United States" when "freedom is under challenge all over the world."

The four-engine jet is designed to fly any ocean nonstop at 550 miles an hour with 154 troops and a 70,000-pound cargo. The plane was the first of a billion-dollar Air Force order for 127 of the aerial giants with the prospects that more will be contracted for.

Bill To Head Off Rail Strike Will Be Ready Today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., said Thursday that his Senate Commerce Committee will have a bill ready Friday to avert a nationwide railroad strike next week.

Magnuson, speaking to reporters after an hour and 15-minute session Thursday afternoon, said he hoped it would be "satisfactory to both sides." The group is scheduled to meet at 9:30 a.m. EDT to work on the measure.

The senator, chairman of the committee, said the legislation would be designed to provide a "reasonable arbitration of the disputes involved and keep the railroads of the United States running."

It was likely that the final congressional vote on rail legislation would come on Wednesday, only hours before the new work rules are due to be imposed.

Rep. Oren Harris, D-Ark., said his House Commerce Committee would meet Monday. He said it would probably report out a bill on that day with the measure taken up by the Rules Committee on Tuesday.

Harris said the House would probably vote Wednesday.

Magnuson said Thursday's meetings paved the way for an agreement Friday. He said the discussion brought out the sense of the group on several proposals.

Magnuson did not disclose any details but had said earlier that four different approaches had been weighed in an effort to avert the strike deadline at midnight Wednesday.

The rail dispute has resisted the best efforts of Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz to negotiate a settlement. It was tossed into the lap of a reluctant Congress after the collapse of the government's latest mediation effort Wednesday night.

Pickets, N.Y. Police Clash At City Hall

NEW YORK (UPI) — Violence broke out on the steps of City Hall Thursday when a group of chained-together civil rights demonstrators taunted Mayor Robert F. Wagner. Police arrested nine of them in a melee of flying fists.

Three policemen were injured including one who was believed to have suffered a broken arm.

S. Viet Nam Chief, Lodge Due To Clash

Saigon Stands Pat Against Buddhists; Envoy To U.S. Quits

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — President Ngo Dinh Diem's government appears headed for a direct diplomatic clash with the United States, its military ally and financial angel, over the lightning crackdown on Diem's Buddhist opponents.

Even as Henry Cabot Lodge arrived in Saigon on Thursday as the new ambassador of the angered Kennedy administration, communiques indicated the Saigon regime intends to stay on course in combatting the political-religious crisis.

Strong words are expected when Diem, a Roman Catholic, meets Lodge, who for eight years was the chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations.

The U.S. State Department has denounced the Buddhist crackdown and said, "The United States deplores repressive actions of this nature."

Among others who deplored it were Diem's ambassador to Washington, Tran Van Chuong, and Chuong's wife, South Vietnamese observer to the United Nations. Both resigned.

Parents Of "Dragon Lady"

They are the parents of Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu, South Viet Nam's First Lady who is the sister-in-law of the bachelor president.

A Confucianist, Chuong cabled Diem: "I cannot go on representing a government which ignores my advice and of which I disapprove." His wife, a Buddhist, also tendered her resignation from Washington.

But statements by Diem's regime suggested it is standing pat.

"The government is strongly determined," one communique said, "not to tolerate exploitation of religion for political purposes, turning of pagodas — high places for prayer, mediation and sanctification—into quarters for agitation and propaganda, terrorism and plotting against the security of the state."

The regime noted differences among the hundreds of monks and nuns arrested by troops and police in shot-punctuated raids on Buddhist pagodas in the first measures of martial law before dawn Wednesday.

Over 1,000 Arrested

The communique indicated those who pledge cooperation will be released. But it said "those who have actually plotted against the security of the state while the latter is at war" against the Communist uprising will remain in custody.

Buddhists have denied any connection with communism throughout their antigovernment campaign, avowedly aimed toward religious freedom and social justice. But another communique called the alleged plotters "yellow-robed Reds."

There still were no precise figures on the number of monks and nuns arrested and the number of casualties in the pagoda raids. A government spokesman told U.S. authorities more than 1,000 persons were held.

The government denied any had been killed.

Eyewitnesses, however, said one monk was shot dead at the Xa Loi pagoda in Saigon and estimates of the dead at that one Buddhist center ranged up to five or six. About 30 were wounded.

Eric Johnston, Film Czar, Dies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Eric A. Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association of America and a public servant for three U.S. presidents, died Thursday at a Washington hospital. He was 66.

The famed "movie czar" had entered George Washington University Hospital on June 17 after he suffered a stroke, and became gradually weaker from the effects of cerebral thrombosis.

Born in the nation's capital and long a resident of Spokane, Wash., Johnston administered the motion picture industry's moral code of self-censorship for 18 years.

Head of several big business firms, Johnston also handled various government assignments for former Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman, and once went to the Middle East as a special ambassador for former President Dwight D. Eisenhower. He was a former president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Congress, With Little To Show So Far, Could Run Well Into Winter Months

WASHINGTON (AP)—Is President Kennedy's legislative program stuck in the bogs of Congress? Some critics say so. The White House and Democratic leaders say it isn't.

Congress has passed July 31—the suggested legal date for adjournment—with only a few bills of substance to show for it. This session will go on at least to Thanksgiving and perhaps to Christmas, the longest spell since the Congress of 1950.

"It seems to me that on the basis of the record to date," said Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., in a recent Senate speech, "we are assigning ourselves a unique niche in history as the biggest and longest running, slow-motion show to hit Washington in years. And I believe we are in grave danger of seeing ourselves dubbed the 'standstill' Congress, or worse."

Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts disagrees. "Congress is considering some of the most important bills that have come up in my career in Congress," he said in an interview. "I wish some had been reported out sooner, but the committees are working harder than any in my time, and I am confident that at the end of this Congress, we will have a very fine record."

Lawrence F. O'Brien, Kennedy's special assistant for congressional relations, said in an interview, "We are confident this Congress will enact a substantial portion of the President's legislative program in this session, including the tax bill, civil rights, area redevelopment agency amendments, legislation in the field of education, mental health and mental retardation, as well as many other important items—and the Senate will ratify the nuclear test ban treaty."

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois recently cited a study by Congressional Quarterly. It showed that by July 31, Congress had approved 19 of the Kennedy administration's 403 requests. Congressional Quarterly said this percentage of approval—4.7 per cent—was a record low.

The survey compared this 1963 rate with other sessions: By July 2, 1962, Congress had approved 7 per cent of Kennedy's requests; by May 5, 1961, Congress had approved 10 per cent of Kennedy's requests; by May 8, 1955, Congress had approved 13.7 per cent of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's requests.

Yugo And Soviet Bosses Apparently Bury Hatchet

BELGRADE (UPI)—"Let's bury the past" remarks by Yugoslavia President Marshal Tito to Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev were made public Thursday while the two Communist leaders were visiting earthquake - ruined Skopje.

Khrushchev and Tito flew to the devastated city in southern Yugoslavia in separate U.S. - made DC6b transports. They drove through the ruins of the once-proud capital of Macedonia in a white Cadillac convertible.

During their five-hour visit to Skopje, the official Tanjug News Agency released the text of a speech made by Tito at a dinner with the Soviet premier Wednesday night.

A Western diplomat, commenting on the speech, said "Khrushchev lost China, but he seems to be regaining Yugoslavia."

Western observers agreed Tito's remarks appeared to spell the end of the years-long bitter feud between Belgrade and Moscow.

Observers said the remarks were warmest by Tito for the Soviets since the late Josef Stalin expelled him from the world Communist movement for pursuing an independent brand of communism.

"During the course of the past few years, especially in recent times, the relations between the Soviet Union and Yugoslavia have been developing in the spirit of best mutual understanding and good cooperation on the government level," the Yugoslav leader declared.

"We did not always act quite correctly. It is good we are able to correct our mistakes. It is dangerous when that is not done," Tito said.

CAB Denies Influencing Flight Shifts To Dulles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Alan S. Boyd of the Civil Aeronautics Board denied Thursday his agency in any way exerted pressure on commercial airlines serving this area to get them to transfer flights from the Baltimore's Friendship Airport to Washington's new Dulles Airport at Chantilly, Va.

Boyd appeared before a House Commerce subcommittee after Charles D. Crane, official of Baltimore's City Aviation Department, and aides of Sens. J. Glenn Beall, R-Md., and Daniel B. Brewster, D-Md., had testified. Boyd said he resented what he called innuendos and implications by the preceding witnesses that the CAB had exercised improper influence on the airlines.

"I ask these gentlemen to either put up or shut up," he declared. "I do not like to have my character assassinated."

Committee Chairman John Bell Williams, D-Miss., assured the CAB chairman that he was confident the members of the board were seeking to do their honest duty. Complaints of inadequate service by Marylanders arose after many flights originally made into Friendship were transferred to Dulles in recent months.

"I do not make this outburst with any feeling that the board should not be subject to criticism," responded Boyd.

He went on to say that there was no basis for "misstatements and half-truths" which left the impression that airlines transferring flights to Dulles did so because they felt they had to get along with the CAB, which regulates their operations.

On a suggestion of Williams' that a congressional investigation might be made in the House if someone preferred specific charges, Boyd said that he and the rest of the board are ready to "stand up and be counted" anywhere, anytime.

"Everything we've done is open and above board," he said.

"I don't like inferences that we have been doing anything quietly or underhanded."

Testifying for Beall at the hearing was J. N. Price. Brewster was represented by his legislative assistant, Ellery Woodworth.

Both said they were speaking for their bosses, and in similar statements told of complaints they had received which implied that the CAB had exercised undue pressures on the airlines.

Crane testified after Rep. Samuel N. Friedel, D-Md., and other members of the congressional delegation said it was unfair to Baltimore to develop Dulles at the expense of Friendship.

The Baltimore aviation official said Dulles is 75 miles away from his city, and that this distance makes the transfer of flights a great inconvenience to people in a great part of Maryland and Southern Pennsylvania.

Bomb Exploded On Rail Bridge

MONTREAL (UPI) — French-Canadian terrorists Thursday exploded a time bomb on a railroad bridge spanning the St. Lawrence Seaway.

The apparent attempt to blockade the waterway failed. The explosive was planted high atop a lift structure of the bridge spanning the waterway. The mechanism that raises one of the two lanes on the bridge to permit seaway traffic was damaged.

The bridge was in an elevated position at the time and was jammed, creating a bottleneck for rail traffic.

The sabotage marked a renewal of the terrorist assault on Anglo-Saxon influence in the province of Quebec.

Charleston, S.C., Schools Must Admit Negroes

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — U.S. Dist. Judge J. Robert Martin Jr. Thursday ordered 13 Negro children admitted to white schools here this fall and in the same order paved the way for further integration next year.

If the Negroes are admitted it will be the first breach of South Carolina's secondary school segregation barriers since Reconstruction days.

The children range from second grade to high school age. They reside in a district comprised mostly of peninsula Charleston, excluding North Charleston and suburban municipalities.

Only 3,108 white children attend public schools in the district, compared with 9,539 Negroes—a ratio of 24.5 to 75.5 per cent.

Judge Martin's sweeping order provided that the school board can apply to his court for any "reasonable" modification of the order necessary to solve and eliminate any administrative difficulties.

He also ordered school board officials to give written notice next spring to all parents in the district to the effect that their children "have the right to attend a school freely selected without regard to race or color."

The desegregation suit involving the school district was argued at a two-day hearing in Columbia last week. It was moved to that city because of racial tensions here resulting from prolonged antisegregation demonstrations by Negroes.

There was no immediate decision on whether the school board will appeal.

Seized Pickets Get Jury Trials

TRAPPE, Md. (AP)—Eighteen pickets arrested after a busload of migrant workers was stoned at a food packing company were granted jury trials Thursday and will appear before the November session of the Talbot County Circuit Court.

The 17 were arrested Wednesday at the Trappe Frozen Food Company, where about 115 members of the United Packing House, Food and Allied Workers went on strike last Saturday.

The bus carrying migrant workers was showered with rocks and stones as it entered the plant, and State Police said 12 persons were injured.

Three pickets were charged with assault and malicious destruction of property, and 15 others were charged only with malicious destruction of property. All were released on bail of $2,000 for each charge.

The union called the strike in a dispute over its first contract with the company. It won a collective bargaining election at the plant last April.

Two Deaths Up Md. Traffic Toll To 364

By The Associated Press

The deaths of two children, injured in separate traffic accidents, have increased Maryland's 1963 highway toll to 364, or 14 more than on the same date a year ago.

Samuel Smith, 8, of Glen Burnie, died in South Baltimore General Hospital Thursday. He was struck by a car Wednesday while walking along a highway in Anne Arundel County.

Barbara J. Neser, 12, of Portsmouth, Va., was fatally injured Wednesday when the car driven by her father was involved in a collision on Maryland 5 in Clinton, Prince Georges County. She died at the Southern Maryland Medical Center in Clinton.

Catholic Bishops Condemn Bias

WASHINGTON (AP) — Roman Catholic bishops of the United States, in a pastoral letter released Thursday, said "the conscience of the nation is on trial" over racial discrimination.

"We must act to remove obstacles that impede the rights and opportunities of our Negro brethren," the letter said. "We should do our part to see that voting, jobs, housing, education, and public facilities are freely available to every American."

The National Catholic Welfare Conference, which released the letter, said it would be read in many U.S. dioceses this Sunday. A conference spokesman added that bishops are not required to have it read and that some, for various reasons, may choose to ignore it.

Bay Pollution Study Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Clarence D. Long, D-Md., asked Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall Thursday to conduct a 2-year, $40,000 study of Chesapeake Bay pollution.

There have been heavy fish kills recently in the bay.

Long said more information is needed about bay pollution before an effective enforcement program can begin.

He has discussed the idea of a pollution study with Dr. Ray Johnson, chief of the Interior Department's Division of Sports Fisheries. He said Johnson estimated the study could be made within two years and at a cost of no more than $40,000.

Long said the division's Eastern Fish Diseases Laboratory at Leetown, W. Va., has found strains of bacteria and a virus on fish from the Chesapeake kills but that Dr. Johnson believes the cause is probably pollution.

Fishing Boat Sinks Following Collision

OCEAN CITY, Md. (AP) —A fishing boat sank in the Atlantic Ocean Thursday after colliding with a pleasure craft.

The two hands on the fishing vessel were taken aboard the yacht and nobody was hurt.

Charles Martin, skipper of the 53-foot Linda L., said it sank in 52 feet of water about three miles offshore. He estimated value of his boat at $8,000. Fishing with him at the time was Charles Shockley.

The 55-foot pleasure boat was the George III. On board were Hugh Lindsey, the captain from Chester, Myer Filderman, Bethesda, and Sam Stofberg, Baltimore.

Sewage Threat To Institution Water Supply

ELLICOTT CITY, Md. (AP)—The director of the State Department of Correction said Thursday sewage dumped into the Dorsey Run is threatening the water supply at the House of Correction at Jessups.

James Curran told the Howard County commissioners that the stream is being polluted by sewage from a trailer camp located on U.S. 1, south of Maryland 175, endangering the health of 5,000 users.

The House of Correction's water facilities also supply the Clifton T. Perkins State Hospital, the Patuxent Institution, the State Reformatory for Women and about 200 residential users.

Charles E. Miller, president of the county commissioners, instructed the county health inspector to notify the trailer camp owners that a hearing will be held next week to consider the sewage problem.

Palmer Wine, the health inspector, said the owners had cooperated in the past, but added, "the ground around there just won't absorb any more sewage."

The trailer camp, which contains 74 housing units, is owned by Fred Schoenbrodt and Richard Wilson of Howard County, and an unidentified Belgian citizen.

Three 'Peace Walkers' Are Arrested

BALTIMORE (AP) — Three young pacifists were arrested and fined Thursday after carrying their peace mission into a public park without permission.

The three were among a group of about 40 staging a "walk for peace" which began in Quebec, Canada, and is scheduled to end in Cuba.

Arrested in Mount Vernon Square, a downtown park, were marchers identified as Bruce Henderson, 21, Vancouver, B.C., Lon C. Hill, 22, Mallory, W. Va., and Fred Moore, 21, Berkeley, Calif.

All were charged with displaying banners or signs in a public park without permits and disobeying the order of a policeman who told them to move on. Henderson also was charged with making a speech in a public park without a permit.

Each was fined $1 and ordered to pay $4 in court costs on each charge. Moore paid $10 and was released.

The others refused to pay immediately and remained in jail.

Hanged Czech Reds Declared Innocent

CAB Denies Influencing Flight Shifts To Dulles

Seized Pickets Get Jury Trials

TRAPPE, Md. (AP)—Eighteen pickets arrested after a busload of migrant workers was stoned at a food packing company were granted jury trials Thursday and will appear before the November session of the Talbot County Circuit Court.

The 17 were arrested Wednesday at the Trappe Frozen Food Company, where about 115 members of the United Packing House, Food and Allied Workers went on strike last Saturday.

The bus carrying migrant workers was showered with rocks and stones as it entered the plant, and State Police said 12 persons were injured.

Three pickets were charged with assault and malicious destruction of property, and 15 others were charged only with malicious destruction of property. All were released on bail of $2,000 for each charge.

The union called the strike in a dispute over its first contract with the company. It won a collective bargaining election at the plant last April.

The deaths of two children, injured in separate traffic accidents, have increased Maryland's 1963 highway toll to 364, or 14 more than on the same date a year ago.

Samuel Smith, 8, of Glen Burnie, died in South Baltimore General Hospital Thursday. He was struck by a car Wednesday while walking along a highway in Anne Arundel County.

Barbara J. Neser, 12, of Portsmouth, Va., was fatally injured Wednesday when the car driven by her father was involved in a collision on Maryland 5 in Clinton, Prince Georges County. She died at the Southern Maryland Medical Center in Clinton.

Catholic Bishops Condemn Bias

WASHINGTON (AP) — Roman Catholic bishops of the United States, in a pastoral letter released Thursday, said "the conscience of the nation is on trial" over racial discrimination.

"We must act to remove obstacles that impede the rights and opportunities of our Negro brethren," the letter said. "We should do our part to see that voting, jobs, housing, education, and public facilities are freely available to every American."

The National Catholic Welfare Conference, which released the letter, said it would be read in many U.S. dioceses this Sunday. A conference spokesman added that bishops are not required to have it read and that some, for various reasons, may choose to ignore it.

Bay Pollution Study Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Clarence D. Long, D-Md., asked Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall Thursday to conduct a 2-year, $40,000 study of Chesapeake Bay pollution.

There have been heavy fish kills recently in the bay.

Long said more information is needed about bay pollution before an effective enforcement program can begin.

He has discussed the idea of a pollution study with Dr. Ray Johnson, chief of the Interior Department's Division of Sports Fisheries. He said Johnson estimated the study could be made within two years and at a cost of no more than $40,000.

Long said the division's Eastern Fish Diseases Laboratory at Leetown, W. Va., has found strains of bacteria and a virus on fish from the Chesapeake kills but that Dr. Johnson believes the cause is probably pollution.

Fishing Boat Sinks Following Collision

OCEAN CITY, Md. (AP) —A fishing boat sank in the Atlantic Ocean Thursday after colliding with a pleasure craft.

The two hands on the fishing vessel were taken aboard the yacht and nobody was hurt.

Charles Martin, skipper of the 53-foot Linda L., said it sank in 52 feet of water about three miles offshore. He estimated value of his boat at $8,000. Fishing with him at the time was Charles Shockley.

The 55-foot pleasure boat was the George III. On board were Hugh Lindsey, the captain from Chester, Myer Filderman, Bethesda, and Sam Stofberg, Baltimore.

Sewage Threat To Institution Water Supply

ELLICOTT CITY, Md. (AP)—The director of the State Department of Correction said Thursday sewage dumped into the Dorsey Run is threatening the water supply at the House of Correction at Jessups.

James Curran told the Howard County commissioners that the stream is being polluted by sewage from a trailer camp located on U.S. 1, south of Maryland 175, endangering the health of 5,000 users.

The House of Correction's water facilities also supply the Clifton T. Perkins State Hospital, the Patuxent Institution, the State Reformatory for Women and about 200 residential users.

Charles E. Miller, president of the county commissioners, instructed the county health inspector to notify the trailer camp owners that a hearing will be held next week to consider the sewage problem.

Palmer Wine, the health inspector, said the owners had cooperated in the past, but added, "the ground around there just won't absorb any more sewage."

The trailer camp, which contains 74 housing units, is owned by Fred Schoenbrodt and Richard Wilson of Howard County, and an unidentified Belgian citizen.

Three 'Peace Walkers' Are Arrested

BALTIMORE (AP) — Three young pacifists were arrested and fined Thursday after carrying their peace mission into a public park without permission.

The three were among a group of about 40 staging a "walk for peace" which began in Quebec, Canada, and is scheduled to end in Cuba.

Arrested in Mount Vernon Square, a downtown park, were marchers identified as Bruce Henderson, 21, Vancouver, B.C., Lon C. Hill, 22, Mallory, W. Va., and Fred Moore, 21, Berkeley, Calif.

All were charged with displaying banners or signs in a public park without permits and disobeying the order of a policeman who told them to move on. Henderson also was charged with making a speech in a public park without a permit.

Each was fined $1 and ordered to pay $4 in court costs on each charge. Moore paid $10 and was released.

The others refused to pay immediately and remained in jail.

Hanged Czech Reds Declared Innocent

Toby Jugs, Wooden Pins Among Open House Exhibits

Mugs, jugs, measuring gills and steins as well as relics from Folck's Mill and the battle there, and seven commemorative plates will be the feature display at the semi - weekly "Open House" at the Allegany County Historical Society, 218 Washington Street, tomorrow. The open house will be held from 1 until 4 o'clock. The public is invited.

Speaking of the display she and Mrs. Gertrude Golden Smith are showing, Mrs. George F. Hazelwood pointed out that a mug is a drinking vessel with a handle and no lip, while the jug is a vessel with a lip for holding or serving liquids. The Toby jug is a small jug generally used for ale and shaped somewhat like a stout man with a cocked hat forming the brim. The exhibits range from one to 10 inches high.

They include three large "Tobys," "John Peel," a British statesman; "Granny" and a "Highwayman" with the handle in the form of a pistol. These three are "heads" or "character" Toby jugs and are Royal Doulton. There are three medium sized Staffordshire Tobys, a bust type, seated man and seated man in "Gaudy Welsh" style.

Smaller ones include a Royal Doulton, "Old Charley"; Satffordshire two "Seated Men"; in native head of a Welsh man in native hat of Lancaster Sandlandware; and one a monk from Western Germany.

Among the tiny Tobys are a "Double Faced" one, "Mr. Pickwick" of Royal Doulton and two seated men of Crown Staffordshire; and a Royal Doulton "Pirate."

In the mugs category are a coronation mug of Edward VIII, designed and modeled by Dame Laura Knight, D.B.R., R.A., dated May 1937, with the portrait of Edward VIII on the front and the Royal coat-of-arms on the back, shown by Mrs. Hazelwood and one of Queen Elizabeth II, of Crown Staffordshire, with the Royal coat-of-arms on the front, dated June 2, 1953, shown by Mrs. Smith, who also is exhibiting two stoneware mugs from near Caledon, Canada. They are brownish in color with flecked toupe inside. Made of a special clay, stoneware is fired at a very high heat and is non-porous. There also is one small antique blue stoneware mug from Germany, inscribed in German, "Prosit," or good health.

There will be two 12-inch antique German steins with pewter tops, brought to this country by the grandfather of George F. Hazelwood Jr., when he migrated from Dusseldorf, Germany, about 1880; and one antique glass stein with pewter rim and handle.

Another item to be shown is a measure of ½ gill. It has a hallmark and is of the date 1790. It was bought at the Curiosity Shop in London by Mrs. Hazelwood.

There also will be shown two jugs of Royal Holland pewter which is made in Tiel, the old Hanse town on the river Waal in the Netherlands. The one is a "Guild" jug, reproduction of the so-called town-jug of Amsterdam. Guests of high rank often were welcomed by the town authorities with a draught of wine from the town-jug. In former centuries numerous towns possessed a jug for this purpose and each town had its own characteristic pattern. The other is a "Jen Steen" jug, reproduction of the type jug one notices portrayed in numerous paintings of the famous Dutch painters, such as Rembrandt, Jan Steen and others.

Relics from Folck's Mill and the battle there August 1, 1864, will be shown by George C. Fey Jr. They include several handmade nails from the mill, and wooden pins, cannon balls, bayonets and shells.

The commemorative plates include Fort Cumberland, 1755-1955; one with six scenes of Cumberland and the toll house rates in the center; another of Fort Cumberland, with Washington on one side and Braddock on the other, pictures of the old Academy and Episcopal Church, C&O Canal and B&O Tom Thumb; the "Three Spires," St. Paul's English Lutheran Church, Baltimore Street, organized in 1794; one marking the dedication of the Springs Mennonite Church, 1955 and commemorating the advent of the first Mennonites in the area in 1780; and one of General Braddock, the Battle of the Monongahela, 1755, and the map of the river.

Hostesses tomorrow will be Mrs. Randolph Millholland, Mrs. F. Brooke Whiting, Mrs. J. E. Beatty, Mrs. Jane Ebert, Mrs. Emma Everstine and Mrs. Robert King, chairman.

Due to the competition of the Cumberland Fair, only about 25 persons attended the open house Wednesday afternoon. Among those were numerous adults who said it was the first time they had seen an original Currier and Ives and a text book dating back to 1806. The children were intrigued to hear that years ago children learned to write on slates. The Currier and Ives and one of the slates were on loan by Mrs. James A. Smith. Mrs. William Hinkle, Mrs. Charles J. Hansrote and Miss Ruth Clauson were hostesses.

Friends Aware Camp To Continue Next Year

"By all means there will be another Friends Aware camp next year," Charles Statler, director, stated last night in discussing the success of this year's season. "A pretty good endorsement" for camp, he said is the fact that several of the children cried because they did not want to leave camp this year." It was a rough two weeks, but I'm ready to start over," he said.

Four special programs were given. One was films of previous years shown by a group working toward a spiritual project; a live snake and Indian dancing program by the Order of the Arrow, Explorer Scouts; two entertainments by Betsy Hosack and her group; and comic songs and dancing in character costumes by a group under the direction of Mrs. Virginia Schilling. Toby Jugs, Wooden Pins Among Open House Exhibits

Mugs, jugs, measuring gills and steins as well as relics from Folck's Mill and the battle there, and seven commemorative plates will be the feature display at the semi - weekly "Open House" at the Allegany County Historical Society, 218 Washington Street, tomorrow. The open house will be held from 1 until 4 o'clock. The public is invited.

Speaking of the display she and Mrs. Gertrude Golden Smith are showing, Mrs. George F. Hazelwood pointed out that a mug is a drinking vessel with a handle and no lip, while the jug is a vessel with a lip for holding or serving liquids. The Toby jug is a small jug generally used for ale and shaped somewhat like a stout man with a cocked hat forming the brim. The exhibits range from one to 10 inches high.

They include three large "Tobys," "John Peel," a British statesman; "Granny" and a "Highwayman" with the handle in the form of a pistol. These three are "heads" or "character" Toby jugs and are Royal Doulton. There are three medium sized Staffordshire Tobys, a bust type, seated man and seated man in "Gaudy Welsh" style.

Smaller ones include a Royal Doulton, "Old Charley"; Satffordshire two "Seated Men"; in native head of a Welsh man in native hat of Lancaster Sandlandware; and one a monk from Western Germany.

Among the tiny Tobys are a "Double Faced" one, "Mr. Pickwick" of Royal Doulton and two seated men of Crown Staffordshire; and a Royal Doulton "Pirate."

In the mugs category are a coronation mug of Edward VIII, designed and modeled by Dame Laura Knight, D.B.R., R.A., dated May 1937, with the portrait of Edward VIII on the front and the Royal coat-of-arms on the back, shown by Mrs. Hazelwood and one of Queen Elizabeth II, of Crown Staffordshire, with the Royal coat-of-arms on the front, dated June 2, 1953, shown by Mrs. Smith, who also is exhibiting two stoneware mugs from near Caledon, Canada. They are brownish in color with flecked toupe inside. Made of a special clay, stoneware is fired at a very high heat and is non-porous. There also is one small antique blue stoneware mug from Germany, inscribed in German, "Prosit," or good health.

There will be two 12-inch antique German steins with pewter tops, brought to this country by the grandfather of George F. Hazelwood Jr., when he migrated from Dusseldorf, Germany, about 1880; and one antique glass stein with pewter rim and handle.

Another item to be shown is a measure of ½ gill. It has a hallmark and is of the date 1790. It was bought at the Curiosity Shop in London by Mrs. Hazelwood.

There also will be shown two jugs of Royal Holland pewter which is made in Tiel, the old Hanse town on the river Waal in the Netherlands. The one is a "Guild" jug, reproduction of the so-called town-jug of Amsterdam. Guests of high rank often were welcomed by the town authorities with a draught of wine from the town-jug. In former centuries numerous towns possessed a jug for this purpose and each town had its own characteristic pattern. The other is a "Jen Steen" jug, reproduction of the type jug one notices portrayed in numerous paintings of the famous Dutch painters, such as Rembrandt, Jan Steen and others.

Relics from Folck's Mill and the battle there August 1, 1864, will be shown by George C. Fey Jr. They include several handmade nails from the mill, and wooden pins, cannon balls, bayonets and shells.

The commemorative plates include Fort Cumberland, 1755-1955; one with six scenes of Cumberland and the toll house rates in the center; another of Fort Cumberland, with Washington on one side and Braddock on the other, pictures of the old Academy and Episcopal Church, C&O Canal and B&O Tom Thumb; the "Three Spires," St. Paul's English Lutheran Church, Baltimore Street, organized in 1794; one marking the dedication of the Springs Mennonite Church, 1955 and commemorating the advent of the first Mennonites in the area in 1780; and one of General Braddock, the Battle of the Monongahela, 1755, and the map of the river.

Hostesses tomorrow will be Mrs. Randolph Millholland, Mrs. F. Brooke Whiting, Mrs. J. E. Beatty, Mrs. Jane Ebert, Mrs. Emma Everstine and Mrs. Robert King, chairman.

Due to the competition of the Cumberland Fair, only about 25 persons attended the open house Wednesday afternoon. Among those were numerous adults who said it was the first time they had seen an original Currier and Ives and a text book dating back to 1806. The children were intrigued to hear that years ago children learned to write on slates. The Currier and Ives and one of the slates were on loan by Mrs. James A. Smith. Mrs. William Hinkle, Mrs. Charles J. Hansrote and Miss Ruth Clauson were hostesses.

SRC Explanation Asked

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said Thursday he has asked the State Roads Commission for full details of its reported plans to take over the federal government portion of the Baltimore-Washington Expressway.

The section built and now maintained by the federal government runs from Laurel, Md., to the district line.

In a letter to John B. Funk, chairman-director, and Carl L. Wannen, comptroller of the SRC, Goldstein said he had read the state planned to rebuild, maintain and police the federal portion with state funds.

"I would appreciate your letting me have the total cost of this project, when it will be initiated, when it will be completed, and where the state funds are coming from to pay for the cost," he said.

"I would also like to know what other projects will be delayed, stopped, or put off in order to carry out the project mentioned above."

Goldstein, former president of the Maryland Senate, told Funk and Wannen he recalls many discussions in the legislature about the expressway, including introduction of legislation to stop the state from rebuilding that portion originally constructed by the federal government as part of the federal parkway system.

Although not all of them have been taken into custody and posted bail, as is customary before identification is made public, the full list was docketed in Criminal Court.

Carl O. Martin, bail clerk, took the action so indictments may be expedited. The first step of presenting the 16 was taken by the grand jury July 31.

Man Kills Wife, Takes Own Life

BALTIMORE (AP) — A 54-year-old junk yard foreman gunned down his estranged wife in the crowded basement of a downtown 10-cent store Thursday, then turned the pistol on himself. Both died.

Witnesses said the man, John L. Campbell of Baltimore, walked up to where his 49-year-old wife was tending a sales counter, drew a pistol and fired one fatal shot into her neck.

His wife, Catherine, slumped behind the toy counter where she had worked for two years. She died minutes later in a hospital.

A witness said Campbell then pressed the muzzle of the gun against his chest and fired another shot, killing himself.

Brief Asks Supreme Court Order Maryland Reapportionment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Maryland Committee for Fair Representation filed a Supreme Court brief Thursday asking that the state legislature be directed to take "corrective action" before Jan. 1, 1966 on representation in both House and Senate.

"The citizens of the more populous political subdivisions of Maryland have tried, desperately and persistently, to break the stranglehold on state government which the representatives from the less populous areas have so long possessed," the brief said.

Last June the Supreme Court agreed to hear an appeal by the committee from a decision by the Maryland Court of Appeals. The brief was filed in advance of argument to be heard sometime in the week of Nov. 11.

The Maryland Court of Appeals found the state followed the federal plan of allotting senatorial seats by the geography rather than population. It ruled there was no violation of the U.S. Constitution.

The committee's appeal asserted that the federal analogy "is more a desperate afterthought than a compelling argument," and "historical reasons do not carry over to provide a rational basis for the grossly disproportionate representation which now exists in the State Senate."

The brief declared, "The overriding standing which should apply in all reapportionment cases is the principle of absolute equality of suffrage, or the concept of 'one man, one vote'."

Committee counsel cited to the Supreme Court statistics to show that the five most populous political subdivisions, containing 76 per cent of the population of Maryland, have only 34 per cent of total membership in the Senate.

Under the present arrangement in the state, counsel said, a minority of 14 per cent of the population of the state residing in less populous political subdivisions can elect a majority of the members of the Senate.

Similarly, the committee brief said, the five most populous political subdivisions are afforded only 55 per cent of the membership of the Maryland House and 35 per cent of the population of the state is in a position to elect a majority of the House.

The five most populous subdivisions were listed as the counties of Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Montgomery, and Prince Georges, and the City of Baltimore.

The brief declared that Maryland's experience on legislative districting was similar to that of many other states.

W. Va. Gets 134 New Industries In 2 Years

BECKLEY, W. Va. (UPI) — State Commerce Commissioner Hulett C. Smith told industrial leaders in the Beckley - Raleigh County area Wednesday night that West Virginia has had a new average of 67 new industrial operations annually for the past two years, compared to an average of only 11 in 1961.

In a "Salute to Industry Week" at the Beckley Hotel, Smith stressed the importance of industrial development to the overall growth of the Mountain State.

He defined it as the "phenomena of our age and the dynamic progress of West Virginia since the inception of the state's new Department of Commerce."

He said the Clean-Up Campaign spearheaded by Gov. W. W. Barron, accomplishments of his department's Industrial Development Division and the sharp increase in tourism as integral factors in the state's "renewed vigor and steadily increasing industrial might."

Educator Says More Changes Needed In School Curricula

School curricula changes are needed instead of "more of the same" type of education that is being offered today, Dr. Jack R. Frymier, associate professor of Education at Ohio State University, said here yesterday.

Dr. Frymier was the featured speaker this morning at the workshop for 60 high school supervisors from Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties.

Speaking on "Developing Effective In-Service Education", he cautioned the educators that there are forces today from non-professional fields who try to exercise leadership in curriculum development.

Because of this group usurping these roles, school personnel are apprehensive about the moves for changes emanating from these people.

These stem from the hysteria movement from the cold war, the tax dollar, etc., Dr. Frymier added.

School people, he declared are subject to more criticism than any other group as a result of this pressure.

Improved instruction, he said secondly, can come from curriculum research. Supervisors and principals should identify the problems that exist in their school districts.

Collection of data, plus curriculum councils comprised of school personnel, bring about a careful investigation of the problem.

He cited one example of a district that introduced modern mathematics into the curriculum. Here, there was no information on this new program other than from those who originated it.

Others should examine the new program so that it could be evaluated correctly, he said.

Finally, Dr. Frymier declared that the workshop being conducted here is a good way for the development of inservice leadership.

He urged the supervisors and principals to conduct research into their curricula by collecting data.

Previously, when a change was proposed these professional educators would either advocate it or refuse it.

All that could be done was argue, and this did not bring any concrete results. But research, he added, allowed them to pin their arguments down.

Curricula change is necessary. New trends are needed, not just "more of the same" that is being offered, he concluded.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our son is 11 years old. He goes to dancing school where he is learning poise and ballroom dancing. Most of the boys and girls in his class are 10, 11 and 12 years old.

Last night the class had a party at the home of one of the little girls. It was not a date affair. Each child was brought by a parent and was to be picked up by midnight.

Our son told us this morning that he had a terrible time because of a game called "Heaven Or Hell." The boy takes the girl who is "it" into a closet and for seven minutes he can either kiss her (Heaven) or hit her (Hell). Our son said he didn't want to hit a girl and he didn't want to kiss one either. According to him the girls liked the game but the boys didn't.

My husband is boiling mad over this and he wants to take our son out of the school. I have mixed emotions. Wouldn't it be a shame if he lacked poise and didn't know how to dance when dancing is so important to popularity these days?

—BEVERLY HILLS MOTHER

Dear Beverly: Who gave your husband poise lessons? Mine, too — and they survived homehow, didn't they?

Take that kid of yours out of that silly dancing school and put him in a YMCA swimming class. An 11-year-old boy should be playing baseball, climbing trees and wrestling with other boys. He should not be "kissing or hitting" girls in closets.

Parents who pust 10-, 11- and 12-year olds into adult situations force them to play-act. The best these poor kids can do is imitate what they imagine is adult behavior. Youngsters such as yours, who are cheated of precious childhood years, become burned out has-beens at 17.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Is it all right for the landlady to roam freely through our apartment, eating and smoking and sticking her nose into heaven knows what?

I am one of six single girls who lives in this very convenient building. The units we rent are not sumptuous but to us this is home. We don't own anything of value but the idea that someone can come in and snoop around is maddening.

The landlady will not permit us to change the locks on our doors because she says she must have access to our apartments in case of an emergency. Is there something we can do? None of us wants to move.

—THE CLIFF DWELLERS

DEAR DWELLERS: The landlady may indeed have the keys to your apartments but she has no right to use those keys except in a real emergency (fire, escaping gas, etc.). Many leases say so. If yours does not, perhaps it should.

In some states the landlady could be prosecuted for illegal entry if she invaded your apartments just to snoop around.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I went steady with Rollie for almost six months. Several weeks ago we sat down and had a long talk. We agreed the romance had cooled and that we had lost interest in each other. There were no harsh words — you might say the romance just died of natural causes.

Yesterday when I heard Rollie is dating a girl friend of mine I decided to give him his fraternity pin back. I looked high and low and can't find the pin anywhere.

Do you feel I have an obligation to replace it? Or shall I wait until he asks and then tell him "Too bad, Friend, I lost the bloomin' thing." Thanks for your help.

—DOORNAIL ROMANCE

DEAR DOORNAIL: Since Rollie hasn't mentioned the pin he probably doesn't attach much importance to it. Say nothing. If he should ask for the pin later, you have an obligation to replace it—if he wishes you to.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Fire Losses Up

NEW YORK (UPI)—Estimated dollar losses by fires in the United States rose to $100,926,000 in July, up 6.5 per cent from the month before but 5.4 per cent below July 1962, the National Board of Fire Underwriters reported.

The last surviving Pony Express rider, who died nearly six years ago, was Bronco Charlie Miller. He died at the age of 105.

County Has Full Quota Of Teachers

When Allegany County public schools open September 4 the teaching staff will number 665 men and women, according to Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of schools.

Webster said that there will be 10 additional instructors in the junior-senior high school division due to increased enrollment at Fort Hill, Allegany, Beall, Flintstone, Bruce and Valley schools.

The junior-senior high schools will have 31 new teachers, which resulted from instructors retiring, leaving the county, resignations and leaves of absence.

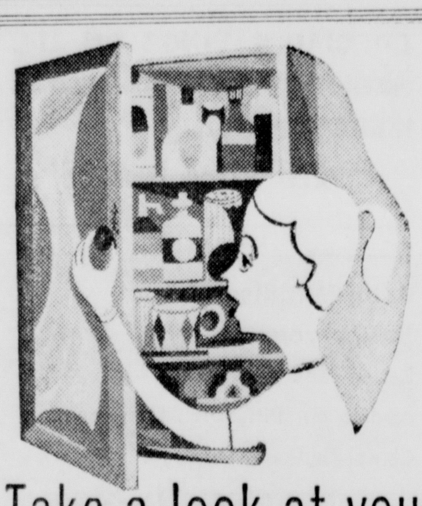

In the elementary section there will be 22 new teachers, including two additional instructors in speech therapy. They are Mrs. Rebecca (Bess) Kenny, Westernport, who will be speech therapist in the schools in the western section of the county and Miss Alice Spoerl, who will be speech therapist for Cumberland schools and environs.

Webster said that all teaching positions have been filled.

The salary schedule for the coming school year will be from $400 to $500 more than for the last school term. The Allegany County Board of Commissioners granted the new salary scale last spring when the new 1963-64 budget was set.

Beginning teachers have a starting pay of $4,700 annually, which is the sixth best in the state and is only a few hundred dollars below the leading counties. The top scale for a bachelor's degree will be $6,900.

Last night the class had a party at the home of one of the little girls. It was not a date affair. Each child was brought by a parent and was to be picked up by midnight.

Our son told us this morning that he had a terrible time because of a game called "Heaven Or Hell." The boy takes the girl who is "it" into a closet and for seven minutes he can either kiss her (Heaven) or hit her (Hell). Our son said he didn't want to hit a girl and he didn't want to kiss one either. According to him the girls liked the game but the boys didn't.

My husband is boiling mad over this and he wants to take our son out of the school. I have mixed emotions. Wouldn't it be a shame if he lacked poise and didn't know how to dance when dancing is so important to popularity these days?

—BEVERLY HILLS MOTHER

Dear Beverly: Who gave your husband poise lessons? Mine, too — and they survived homehow, didn't they?

Take that kid of yours out of that silly dancing school and put him in a YMCA swimming class. An 11-year-old boy should be playing baseball, climbing trees and wrestling with other boys. He should not be "kissing or hitting" girls in closets.

Parents who pust 10-, 11- and 12-year olds into adult situations force them to play-act. The best these poor kids can do is imitate what they imagine is adult behavior. Youngsters such as yours, who are cheated of precious childhood years, become burned out has-beens at 17.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Is it all right for the landlady to roam freely through our apartment, eating and smoking and sticking her nose into heaven knows what?

I am one of six single girls who lives in this very convenient building. The units we rent are not sumptuous but to us this is home. We don't own anything of value but the idea that someone can come in and snoop around is maddening.

The landlady will not permit us to change the locks on our doors because she says she must have access to our apartments in case of an emergency. Is there something we can do? None of us wants to move.

—THE CLIFF DWELLERS

DEAR DWELLERS: The landlady may indeed have the keys to your apartments but she has no right to use those keys except in a real emergency (fire, escaping gas, etc.). Many leases say so. If yours does not, perhaps it should.

In some states the landlady could be prosecuted for illegal entry if she invaded your apartments just to snoop around.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I went steady with Rollie for almost six months. Several weeks ago we sat down and had a long talk. We agreed the romance had cooled and that we had lost interest in each other. There were no harsh words — you might say the romance just died of natural causes.

Yesterday when I heard Rollie is dating a girl friend of mine I decided to give him his fraternity pin back. I looked high and low and can't find the pin anywhere.

Do you feel I have an obligation to replace it? Or shall I wait until he asks and then tell him "Too bad, Friend, I lost the bloomin' thing." Thanks for your help.

—DOORNAIL ROMANCE

DEAR DOORNAIL: Since Rollie hasn't mentioned the pin he probably doesn't attach much importance to it. Say nothing. If he should ask for the pin later, you have an obligation to replace it—if he wishes you to.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Fire Losses Up

NEW YORK (UPI)—Estimated dollar losses by fires in the United States rose to $100,926,000 in July, up 6.5 per cent from the month before but 5.4 per cent below July 1962, the National Board of Fire Underwriters reported.

The last surviving Pony Express rider, who died nearly six years ago, was Bronco Charlie Miller. He died at the age of 105.

County Has Full Quota Of Teachers

When Allegany County public schools open September 4 the teaching staff will number 665 men and women, according to Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of schools.

Webster said that there will be 10 additional instructors in the junior-senior high school division due to increased enrollment at Fort Hill, Allegany, Beall, Flintstone, Bruce and Valley schools.

The junior-senior high schools will have 31 new teachers, which resulted from instructors retiring, leaving the county, resignations and leaves of absence.

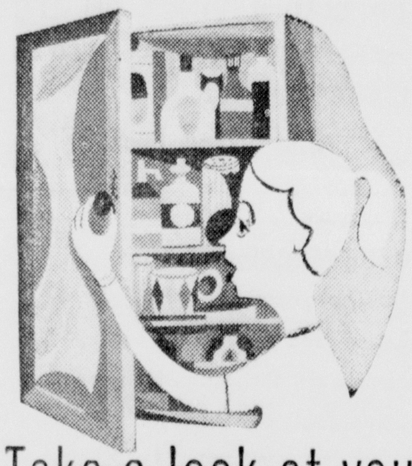

In the elementary section there will be 22 new teachers, including two additional instructors in speech therapy. They are Mrs. Rebecca (Bess) Kenny, Westernport, who will be speech therapist in the schools in the western section of the county and Miss Alice Spoerl, who will be speech therapist for Cumberland schools and environs.

Webster said that all teaching positions have been filled.

The salary schedule for the coming school year will be from $400 to $500 more than for the last school term. The Allegany County Board of Commissioners granted the new salary scale last spring when the new 1963-64 budget was set.

Beginning teachers have a starting pay of $4,700 annually, which is the sixth best in the state and is only a few hundred dollars below the leading counties. The top scale for a bachelor's degree will be $6,900.

Injuries Fatal To Man

A Verona, Pa., motorist who was injured August 3 on the Pennsylvania Turnpike, 13 miles east of Somerset, died Wednesday in Somerset Community Hospital.

State Police reported that John Koban, 49, had struck the medial barrier of the pike and got out of his car to inspect the damage. He was standing at the rear of his car when a tractor-trailer driven by Edward J. Lies, Pittsburgh, struck him and pinned him against the barrier.

Koban died of head and internal injuries.

Three Seabees Are Advanced

Three members of Naval Reserve Construction Battalion 5-7 (Seabees), the local division which has been declared the top unit in the nation, have been advanced in rate, according to Cmdr. Gerard P. Calhoun, commanding officer.

Advanced as a result of successful completion of examinations were Thomas M. Cesnick, of Midland, Roger L. Shaffer, of Berlin, Pa., both from construction recruit to construction apprentice, and David H. Adam, Cumberland, from construction apprentice to constructionman.

Another Seabee, Phillip L. Ramsey, of Cresaptown, cross-rated from seaman to constructionman and has begun training for steelworker third class. Adam, meanwhile, has begun training for construction mechanic.

Test scores ranged from 2.97 to 3.32, Cmdr. Calhoun said, with 2.5 needed for advancement in a 4.0 system.

Two Local Dancers In Baltimore Ballet

Two students of the Moyer Dance Studio will perform with the Baltimore City Ballet today and tomorrow at a shopping center in that city.

They are James Conner, who will do a solo in 'Circa 1910' and Becky Gormer, who will dance several numbers including 'Tabby Luba.'

Miss Gormer attends Allegany High School and Conner attends Hyndman High School.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Separate Checks — Or Separate Tables?

For sheer ferocity, not a single battle in history can match the contest waged "over the check" whenever more than three women lunch or dine together. Skirmishes sans bloodshed they may be, but they're usually accompanied by a couple of casualties, at least.

The first casualty is charm, that indefinable grace that separates ladies from "the girls." It disappears the minute the women drop their dignity to squabble over WHO had the chicken salad for 90c and WHO had the steak sandwich for $1.85.

The second casualty is a natural result of the first. It's probably inadvertent — but almost unavoidable. The waitress is bound to lose most, if not all, of her tip during the settling-up process. Chen pencils, scratch paper and wallets are produced from purses, when the women begin "making change" for one another to make sure none has to pay a penny over the amount of her order, the already - embarrassed waitress knows her "customary" 15 per cent is doomed.

My favorite waitress tells me she doesn't bemoan the loss of her tip, in these instances, as much as she regrets the loss of time — and the loss of face. "If we women only knew how we look and sound at times like that — especially to men!"

She says "we women" because she admits being caught in similar financial frays herself. "Maybe it's our nature. Or maybe it's our arithmetic."

Whatever the reason, she and her friends have learned to forestall the fray before it has a chance to happen — in a way she wishes other women would please copy:

Large luncheon groups should arrange the financial details of their Dutch Treat in advance. They can, if they prefer, put one of their number in charge of paying the entire bill plus tip and any extra charges — and do their settling-up later on, in a less-public place than a restaurant. (And, in this situation, they'd better ask for a souvenir menu, for the sake of an earlier truce.)

Or, they can specify to the waitress before ordering that each one at the table wants a separate check. It's an added service that most good waitresses are glad to perform, if it means unpleasant wrangling can be avoided. Using this system, each Dutch Treater takes care of her own tip, of course.

In my opinion — and my favorite waitress agrees — women who are frank enough to argue over a luncheon check in public should be able to be just as frank with one another in private when planning their Dutch Treat.

Two Suits Filed Over Accidents

Two damage suits involving separate highway accidents have been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Don E. Moran, of Westernport, for his own use and the use of the State Farm Mutual Auto Insurance Company, Virginia Moran and Kelly Lynn Moran their child, brought suit against Lawrence Sherwood Faith of Grantsville as the result of two - vehicle crash February 24 on Route 495 about five miles south of Grantsville.

lengthy proceedings before a final determination is reached.

Richard W. Case, attorney for Potomac, told the commission it would take at least three months to prepare for a hearing on a new permanent rate schedule.

In addition he said, the Federal Power Commission is questioning the wholesale electric rates of Potomac and its charges to the Maryland towns of Thurmont and Williamsport.

Thursday's temporary order applied only to Maryland customers of Potomac. The utility also has subsidiaries in Virginia, West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

Is 13th Cut

R. G. MacDonald, PE president, yesterday pointed out that this will be the 13th major rate reduction to Maryland customers over the past 30 years. In common with other public utilities throughout the state, Potomac Edison's rate structure and financial affairs are subject by law to continuing scrutiny by the Public Service Commission as a protection to both the consumer and the company.

"The availability of power from increasingly larger and more efficient generating units plus the advantages gained through interconnections with other utility systems have helped to make lower rates possible," he said. "Hopefully, this trend will continue in the future."

Low Cost Unit

In this connection, Potomac Edison recently announced plans to join with Monongahela Power Company, an affiliate in the Allegheny Power System, in constructing a 500,000-kilowatt unit at a new generating station in West Virginia.

This unit, the largest ever to be constructed by Potomac Edison and the largest on the APS property, will generate electricity at lower costs than any presently available. Potomac Edison is constructing an additional interconnection between its transmission system and that of the Potomac Electric Power Company. This new tie line is expected to go into service this fall.

Fadeout Of The Uranium Boom

Uranium boom, which at one time seemed to touch everybody with the hope of stupendous personal gain, has busted. Uranium stocks, which were offered by the scores, have all but disappeared. The U.S. government has all the uranium it will need for years, and no peacetime market has developed for the ore.

Most of the uranium processing plants which were built in the U.S. have suspended operations and all but a few of the others are preparing to do so.

In the heyday of the worldwide search for uranium, when nations were bent upon stockpiling weapons with the utmost speed, the U.S. government subsidized the domestic industry. In any world trade in uranium the U.S. could not compete because of subsidized high prices.

Now there is great overproduction, and nuclear electric plants will require only a negligible amount. One distributor of mining equipment in Colorado says he has had no request for a prospector's geiger counter for six years.

The uranium boom may have been a flash in the pan, but it certainly bolstered the get-rich-quick hopes of many people while it lasted.

These Days

By John Chamberlain

British Lion Stands Mute

Not that it matters to them, but this columnist loves the British. Or, at least, he loves the historic idea of Britain. Through the centuries the British fought the good fight for freedom. There was Magna Carta, the commentaries of Coke and Blackstone on the common law of "English liberties," the Bill of Rights, the Glorious Revolution of 1688, and the ultimate triumph of the Whigs in the nineteenth century over the "divine right of kings" philosophy of the ruling house of Hanover.

In the course of negligently picking up an empire to protect their adventurers, explorers and traders, the British carried the idea of individualism, and individual rights, to the ends of the earth. And, when an Englishman or English soil was threatened, the British lion would come forth with a mighty roar. You could twist the lion's tail up to a point, but if the twisting went a shade too far the royal beast would respond with a lethal cuff of his paw.

This was the way it used to be. But what has happened to the lion? Why can't Englishmen get mad any more?

Here the British have those islands in the Bahaman group that are fairly close to Castro's Cuba. The Bahamas are truly British soil, not conquered territory that once belonged to another race. Fleeing from the shoeless, shaveless paradise of Red Cuba, a number of anti-Castro Cubans managed to escape to the little English Bahama island of Anguilla Cay. There they were stranded, because of inability to get transportation to Florida. Some of them hid out successfully when a boat from Castro's navy and a helicopter came to seize them. But nineteen of the little party of refugees were grabbed by Castro's gang and hauled back to the Cuba they had tried to leave. U.S. fighter planes and a U.S. Coast Guard seaplane circled around while the kidnaping went on, but did nothing because Anguilla Cay was British territory. Eventually a U.S. Coast Guard vessel did summon up the humanity to pick up ten anti-Castro Cubans who had buried themselves in the sand while their more visible brethren were being forcibly repatriated by the Castromen.

If this had happened in Queen Victoria's time, when nations prized their "dignidad," the British lion would have roared at once. But this time the lion remained meekly mute. Later, the news from Washington said something about a U.S. attempt to get the British to establish a system of joint air and naval surveillance in the Caribbean to prevent a repetition of the Anguilla Cay incident. But the British were said to be "reluctant" to accede to Secretary of State Rusk's plea for cooperation for fear that the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency might be mixed up in anti-Castro activities.

The answer to that one is that British territory is British territory, and the C.I.A. has nothing to do with the case unless it is caught using British islands for its own work. A man's home is his castle, and Anguilla Cay is, so to speak, a British castle. It is the business of the man who owns the house to say who can or cannot cross the threshhold.

So why didn't the British lion roar at Fidel for a flagrant case of international trespass? Why didn't London tell the bearded bloke off, threatening to cut down on British trade with his shoeless paradise? What has happened to the lion's tail? Has it been twisted so often that its frayed nerves have at last become insensible?

There is, of course, one excuse that the British might offer for accepting the affront to their dignity at Anguilla Cay. They might offer the observation that the U.S. itself does not seem to be very much concerned, as a government, with what is happening in Cuba. True enough. But the British, in the old days, wouldn't have cared about the refusal of other nations to stand up for their national interests.

As I write, I have before me a bulletin from the well-informed Cuban Information Service, edited in Coral Gables, Florida, by Carlos Todd. Says Mr. Todd: "The skipper of a Bahamian mail boat reported that a Cuban 'fishing craft' had chased his vessel for more than five hours last week. . . . Russian-built Cuban 'fishing boats' have been poaching in Bahaman fishing reserves for weeks."

To which Carlos Todd adds: "England is what England seems, and not the England of our dreams . . . but only putty, brass and paint . . ." The last line of the poem—"How quick we'd chuck her, but she ain't"—does not appear in Editor Todd's commentary.

The Re-emergence Of Franz Josef Strauss

BONN, Germany

By Myron Kandel

For West German politicians the place to be seen this summer is the picturesque Bavarian lake area of the Tegernsee. What attracts them are not the water sports or the mountain scenery, but rather a portly, cigar-smoking former professor who is due to take over the reins of the West German government when 87-year-old Konrad Adenauer reluctantly steps down as Chancellor in October.

In the popular magazines, Ludwig Erhard, the Economics Minister, Vice Chancellor, and Chancellor-Designate, is pictured romping with his grandchildren on the lakefront lawns of his modern summer house at the Tegernsee. But he also has spent much of his time — when not called back to Bonn by affairs of state — in serious conferences with political leaders.

Of all those who have beaten a path to his door, none has aroused as much interest and concern, both within the government and without, as Franz Josef Strauss, the fiery former Defense Minister.

It is no secret that the outspoken Mr. Strauss is anxious to make a political comeback following his ouster from the cabinet last December in the aftermath of the arrest of the publisher and several staff members of the weekly news magazine, Der Spiegel.

Even after losing his Defense Ministry post, he was able to win a convincing re-election last month as chairman of the Christian Socialist Union, the Bavarian affiliate of Chancellor Adenauer's Christian Democratic Union.

But he did not regain the national spotlight until three weeks ago, when he began leading the intra-party fight against West German acecptance of the limited nuclear test ban treaty negotiated in Moscow by the United States, Britain, and the Soviet Union.

Despite repeated assurances from Washington and London that the treaty would not help the Communist East German regime gain diplomatic recognition, Mr. Strauss remained bitterly opposed to it. He has held to this view, even though he did not raise any objections while attending the cabinet meeting that officially decided last Friday to ratify the treaty.

Many people here believe that Mr. Strauss seized on the test-ban issue to project himself back onto the front pages. They also saw a desire to embarrass Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder, who strongly favored West German accession to the pact.

If these were his aims, Mr. Strauss succeeded admirably in the first one, but failed completely on the second. The 52-year-old Mr. Schroeder — who holds the post that Mr. Strauss would like to have and who is considered a good bet to follow Dr. Erhard into the Chancellorship, a path that Mr. Strauss once mapped out for himself — emerged as the victor on the issue.

The fact remains, however, that the Bavarian leader demonstrated a good deal of party support before finally bowing to the view that West Germany had to agree to the treaty or risk standing before world opinion with such other non-signers as Communist China, North Korea, Albania, and France as its partners. What Mr. Strauss succeeded in doing, even while waging a losing fight, was to resurrect his standing as a political power far more quickly than most observers thought possible eight months ago, when his national career appeared at an end following his ouster from the cabinet.

As a result, many people here are taking a hard look at the course Mr. Strauss might be taking. Some see his nationalist position on the test-ban treaty leading him into the Gaullist camp on other matters as well. But the French approach toward the United States and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization has won little popular support in West Germany, and what Mr. Strauss needs at this point is an issue with widespread appeal. He guessed wrong on opposition to the test ban pact, but might not do so next time.

Meanwhile, the former Defense Minister, buttressed by the 50 Bavarian deputies he heads, has Dr. Erhard's ear if not his confidence. At the same time, Dr. Erhad, as Chancellor, is certain to rely strongly on Mr. Schroeder's advice on foreign affairs. The in-fighting should be interesting.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

FAR-FETCHED — In the opinion of many impartial observers in Washington, it's about time for the TFX plane contract probers to bring sanity back into their investigation. The accusations of "conflict of interest" against high members of the Defense Department team for awarding the contract to General Dynamics are becoming too far-fetched for even this politically-charged capital.

Navy Secretary Fred Korth is one of the principals accused. He was president of a Fort Worth, Tex., bank when 18 months before the contract was let, it participated in extending a line of credit to the company to the extent of four per cent of the total. On that basis he's accused of having a biased interest in the contract.

Another victim is Air Force Secretary Eugene M. Zuckert, who is accused of bias because some of the work General Dynamics will do will be done in his home state of New York.

A third victim is Deputy Defense Secretary Roswell L. Gilpatrick, who served as one of a battery of lawyers for the company prior to entering government service.

Responsible members of Congress, as well as administration leaders, are seriously concerned over the loose and violent charges that are being hurled about — not only because they are unfounded and unjust, but because of a fear that this particular kind of irresponsibility ultimately will make other competent business executives shy away from government service.

It is unfortunately true that the lure of political capital has caused any number of administration opponents in both parties to swing wild and often at the McNamara Pentagon team. Politicians have tough skins, particularly in an election year, but business executives are not used to receiving the kind of barbs that are being thrown around in the too-long TFX investigation.

Daily Exercise Gets Rid Of Flabby Muscles

By Theodore R. Van Dellen

Some individuals never exercise because they have learned through experience that physical activity is followed by stiffness and soreness. If they are more persistent, in time aching will disappear and their muscles will increase in strength, bulk, and tone. The softie goes through the same experience as the athlete does during the first days of training.

The normal muscle is stretched between two points of insertion. It is elastic and ready to contract at a moment's notice. But with inactivity, the fibers become thin and elongated. When these flabby muscles are put to use, they have a terrible duty to perform because the slack must be taken up before a good contraction is possible. This leads to stiffness and cramping which can be relieved by heat and a few aspirins.

Muscular rheumatism (fibrositis) is more prevalent today because more of us are living a sedentary existence. The best remedy is to use rather than pamper the involved muscles. It is here that a little exercise every day goes a long way.

Many of those bothered periodically with a stiff neck can alleviate the condition by simple neck stretching exercises that take less than 5 minutes a day. (Send a self-addressed stamped envelope for leaflet on neck exercises).

Exercise also helps backache and stiffness of the shoulders. The best procedures are those employing resistance. Weight lifting, rowing machines, bicycling also help. The secret is to take it easy at first and be persistent. It is well to remember that a few minutes of exercise on a busy day is better than none. In time it becomes a habit.

We are not asking every man to be an athlete. But we do suggest that he use his muscles every day, as nature intended. Most housewives can forget what we have said because they get all the exercise they need keeping the home spic and span.

ORIGINS OF ASTHMA

C. J. writes: Is asthma all physical, all psychological, or a combination of both?

REPLY

The cause may be physical or emotional. In addition, the psychological factors may aggravate the physical and vice versa.

DAILY FLUIDS

Mrs. T. J. writes: I have a friend who does not drink water. She says that even a sip makes her sick. She claims that as long as she drinks tea or coffee every day, she is getting all the liquids she needs. Will you please comment on this problem?

REPLY

Your friend is right because fluids are fluids, whether in coffee, tea, soup, or fresh from the tap. She also obtains water from most solid foods she consumes.

SORE THROATS

N. R. writes: What would cause severe attacks of sore throat after the tonsils have been removed?

REPLY

Infection. Tonsillectomy may lessen the number of attacks of sore throat provided these structures were acting as the focus of infection, but does not guarantee against future throat infections.

EFFECTS OF CAFFEINE

B. F. writes: Why is it that the excessive use of coffee doesn't bother some people and makes others nervous?

REPLY

Because people differ in their response to drugs, including caffeine.

HEART HELPERS

E. C. writes: Does medicine help an enlarged heart?

REPLY

Yes. Drugs that lower blood pressure, for example, may reduce the size of the heart. Digitalis and diuretics are useful when dropsy ensues due to enlargement of the organ.

RESTLESSNESS HINT

Mrs. P. H. writes: I find some of your health hints tantalizing—for instance, "Restlessness can kil!." I must know more.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Leo Durocher reports that in one hotly contested ball game last summer, a rookie pitcher just brought up from the sticks, was hurriedly summoned from the bull pen.

Durocher told Shortstop Maury Wills, "This boy needs more warming up. When the ump signals 'Play ball,' make believe you've got something in your eye. It'll give the boy a chance to take a few more practice pitches."

Wills performed his part perfectly—so perfectly, in fact, that when he hollered, "Time out, please. I got something in my eye," the rookie pitcher came running over from the mound yelling, "Lemme get it out for you, Mr. Wills!"

Sandy McTavish (surely you remember him!) won two hundred thousand dollars with a sweepstakes ticket, and his friends were properly jubilant. Sandy asked, however, that they restrain themselves. "It wasn't as much as you lads seem to think," he cautioned them. "Remember that the ticket cost me five dollars."

'Let Us Handle China,' Khrushchev Says; Outlines Program For Trust

By Drew Pearson

(Editor's note: In this, his third report on his interview with Premier Khrushchev, Drew Pearson gives Khrushchev's opinions in his own words on China and on steps by which U.S.-Soviet relations may be improved.)

GAGRA, Georgia U. S. S. R.—Chairman Khrushchev was extremely frank in this second time I've interviewed him on the shore of the Black Sea except on one point—Red China. Here he was humorous but cagey. I opened the subject by asking whether China, now out from under the wing of the Soviet, might cause world trouble.

"Now you are trying to make me speak for the Chinese," Khrushchev replied. "I am not instructed to speak for the Chinese but if I am to express my own personal view, I don't expect they will start anything. The Chinese believe in peace and coexistence. They are saying so and we believe them."

Mrs. Agnes Meyer, who participated in the interview, then asked whether the growing trust between the United States and the Soviet Union would help prevent the Chinese from causing trouble, to which Khrushchev replied, "I should say the Chinese people and government want peace. But, of course, better relations between the USA and the USSR will better stabilize the world situation. I don't mean," Khrushchev added, "an American-Soviet understanding at the expense of a third party, but one from which all nations would gain."

"But," I asked Khrushchev, "wasn't one of the quarrels between China and the Soviet the fact that China did not believe in coexistence?"

"Let us agree on one thing," Mr. K. shot back, "put the responsibility for negotiating with China on our shoulders not on yours!" That ended that.

Puts Nonaggression Pact Next

When I interviewed Khrushchev two years ago, we discussed the difficulty of getting better relations between the United States and Russia unless there was more mutual trust. This brought a lot of criticism from right-wingers in the United States, who asserted mutual trust was impossible, but I am still convinced it is the most important problem facing the two countries and I asked Khrushchev how we could improve mutual trust. He enumerated the following points:

"The major question is disarmament, but it is difficult to approach now, so we should take up some other matters first.

The test ban treaty, while not complete, has settled the heart of the problem—the poisoning of the atmosphere.

"The second is a nonaggression pact.

"The third is the German question. If we solve it, it will clear the atmosphere right away. Then we will be in a position to talk about a reduction in armed forces in Germany. This is a matter on which I believe we can agree.

"Then there is the freezing of budgets to stop the arms race.

"Finally, we believe it is possible to preclude a surprise attack. What does this mean? It means that we would deploy control groups on the territory of each side—at major railway junctions, airports, and seaports. The groups would see to it that there were no movement of troops for surprise attack and this in turn would lead to greater confidence.

After that we could raise the question of withdrawing troops back to their original frontiers, which in turn could lead to a discussion of general disarmament."

"What is the difference between inspection to prevent a surprise attack and inspection to check on underground nuclear tests?" I asked.

"The difference," Khruchchev replied, "is that inspectors for underground tests would cover great areas while inspectors for a surprise attack would be stationed at key places to see whether troops are moved. They would not roam around the country because if they left their specific observation post, troops might move while they were away."

Khrushchev also talked breifly but positively about the problem of convincing people of the need for trust: "To convince people, it is sometimes necessary to ask: who is doing the convincing—and, do they want to be convinced? Do they realize that in the next war the rich and the poor will require the same coffin?"

My personal conclusions regarding Khrushchev's current outlook on life, war and the U.S.A. will be reported in an early column.

Fame is the wink of a star, dead at dawn . . .

Who remembers Lewis Wallace? Some historians. A few students. Everyone remembers Ben-Hur. It's a famous movie. How many know that Wallace wrote Ben-Hur, without ever having visited the Holy Land?

Some men are born with talent. Wallace had it, almost from the time he first saw light on April 10, 1827 at Brookville, Indiana. When he was small, he drew caricatures in charcoal, and landscapes. He didn't like school, and used the enormous affection between him and his mother to prevent his father from compelling attendance.

Lewis was still a little boy when his mother died. At once, his mind turned from art to adventure. He took to the woods, carrying gun and rod and such books as he could carry. He would read, but not study. He was 10 when his father, David Wallace, was elected governor of Indiana.

The boy read everything of value in the state library. By the time he was 15, his handwriting was so Spencerian that Lew was paid to copy public records. At 17, Lew Wallace again changed his habits. He was state capitol reporter for the Indianapolis Daily Journal, and, at the same time, began to study law.

Someone asked him what book made the deepest impression, and Wallace said: "Prescott's Conquest of Mexico." This was the key to the boy's character: adventure, soldiering, law, and literature. He was only 20 when the War with Mexico began. At once, Lew Wallace raised a company of volunteers and went off to fight. It was over before he reached Vera Cruz.

He had time. The dull years began in 1849, when Wallace practiced law at Indianapolis, moved to Covington, became prosecuting attorney in 1850, and dropped it to move to Crawfordsville. By 1856, he had been elected to the Indiana Senate, but his only contribution was to advocate popular election of United States Senators, and a proposal to liberalize divorce laws.

Peace could not deny Wallace a military life. Four years before the Civil War began, he organized a company of volunteers and drilled it so well that, when war came, almost every man in the ranks became an officer. Wallace was appointed adjutant-general of the state.

After Sumter, the Lincoln Administration asked Indiana for 60 companies of soldiers. Lew Wallace delivered 130. He would not stay home, and was made colonel of the 11th Regiment. He fought at Harper's Ferry. Within a year, he was a brigadier; after the capture of Fort Donelson, Wallace became a major general. He was 35.

Wallace was a disciplinarian. His men liked him, but some of his seniors didn't appreciate his flash. General Halleck was one. Twice he removed General Lew Wallace from command. Twice, the command was restored. In 1863, Wallace saved the city of Cincinnati from being captured by General E. Kirby-Smith.

Lincoln gave him command of the VIII Army Corps, a depleted group at Baltimore. On July 9, 1864, Wallace's leadership was tested. He had 5,800 men and was attacked by Gen. Jubal A. Early with 28,000. Wallace was beaten, but saved the City of Washington from being flanked and captured.

When the war ended, Wallace was appointed to the court which tried and convicted Lincoln's assassins, including Mrs. Mary Surrat. He agreed with the rest of the court that the prisoners should carry heavy iron balls, shackled to their ankles, and be forced to wear black hoods throughout the trial.

The excitement of Wallace's life was over. He tried to raise an army for the liberals of Mexico, but failed. He ran for Congress on the Republican ticket, and was beaten. In 1878, the general was appointed governor of New Mexico. Three years later, President James A. Garfield appointed Wallace minister to Turkey.

His first book was "The Fair God," a story of Cortez in Mexico. It was published in 1873, and was an instantaneous hit. In 1880, he wrote "Ben-Hur, A Tale of the Christ." It sold 300,000 copies, and was translated into many languages, including Arabic and Chinese. Later, Wallace wrote "The Life of Benjamin Harrison," "The Boyhood of Christ" and "The Prince of India," but none of them achieved popularity.

His literary career, like his military career, was short and highly dramatic. His home life was serene. In 1852, he married Susan Arnold of Crawfordsville. Fifty years later, he referred to her as "a composite of genius, common-sense, and all the best womanly qualities." He referred to the study where he wrote in long-hand, as "the pleasure house for my soul."

He died in February 1905, age 77. He was writing "Lew Wallace: An Autobiography" when he gasped and started on his greatest adventure.

Fadeout Of The Uranium Boom

Uranium boom, which at one time seemed to touch everybody with the hope of stupendous personal gain, has busted. Uranium stocks, which were offered by the scores, have all but disappeared. The U.S. government has all the uranium it will need for years, and no peacetime market has developed for the ore.

Most of the uranium processing plants which were built in the U.S. have suspended operations and all but a few of the others are preparing to do so.

In the heyday of the worldwide search for uranium, when nations were bent upon stockpiling weapons with the utmost speed, the U.S. government subsidized the domestic industry. In any world trade in uranium the U.S. could not compete because of subsidized high prices.

Now there is great overproduction, and nuclear electric plants will require only a negligible amount. One distributor of mining equipment in Colorado says he has had no request for a prospector's geiger counter for six years.

The uranium boom may have been a flash in the pan, but it certainly bolstered the get-rich-quick hopes of many people while it lasted.

These Days

By John Chamberlain

British Lion Stands Mute

Not that it matters to them, but this columnist loves the British. Or, at least, he loves the historic idea of Britain. Through the centuries the British fought the good fight for freedom. There was Magna Carta, the commentaries of Coke and Blackstone on the common law of "English liberties," the Bill of Rights, the Glorious Revolution of 1688, and the ultimate triumph of the Whigs in the nineteenth century over the "divine right of kings" philosophy of the ruling house of Hanover.

In the course of negligently picking up an empire to protect their adventurers, explorers and traders, the British carried the idea of individualism, and individual rights, to the ends of the earth. And, when an Englishman or English soil was threatened, the British lion would come forth with a mighty roar. You could twist the lion's tail up to a point, but if the twisting went a shade too far the royal beast would respond with a lethal cuff of his paw.

This was the way it used to be. But what has happened to the lion? Why can't Englishmen get mad any more?

Here the British have those islands in the Bahaman group that are fairly close to Castro's Cuba. The Bahamas are truly British soil, not conquered territory that once belonged to another race. Fleeing from the shoeless, shaveless paradise of Red Cuba, a number of anti-Castro Cubans managed to escape to the little English Bahama island of Anguilla Cay. There they were stranded, because of inability to get transportation to Florida. Some of them hid out successfully when a boat from Castro's navy and a helicopter came to seize them. But nineteen of the little party of refugees were grabbed by Castro's gang and hauled back to the Cuba they had tried to leave. U.S. fighter planes and a U.S. Coast Guard seaplane circled around while the kidnaping went on, but did nothing because Anguilla Cay was British territory. Eventually a U.S. Coast Guard vessel did summon up the humanity to pick up ten anti-Castro Cubans who had buried themselves in the sand while their more visible brethren were being forcibly repatriated by the Castromen.

If this had happened in Queen Victoria's time, when nations prized their "dignidad," the British lion would have roared at once. But this time the lion remained meekly mute. Later, the news from Washington said something about a U.S. attempt to get the British to establish a system of joint air and naval surveillance in the Caribbean to prevent a repetition of the Anguilla Cay incident. But the British were said to be "reluctant" to accede to Secretary of State Rusk's plea for cooperation for fear that the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency might be mixed up in anti-Castro activities.

The answer to that one is that British territory is British territory, and the C.I.A. has nothing to do with the case unless it is caught using British islands for its own work. A man's home is his castle, and Anguilla Cay is, so to speak, a British castle. It is the business of the man who owns the house to say who can or cannot cross the threshhold.

So why didn't the British lion roar at Fidel for a flagrant case of international trespass? Why didn't London tell the bearded bloke off, threatening to cut down on British trade with his shoeless paradise? What has happened to the lion's tail? Has it been twisted so often that its frayed nerves have at last become insensible?

There is, of course, one excuse that the British might offer for accepting the affront to their dignity at Anguilla Cay. They might offer the observation that the U.S. itself does not seem to be very much concerned, as a government, with what is happening in Cuba. True enough. But the British, in the old days, wouldn't have cared about the refusal of other nations to stand up for their national interests.

As I write, I have before me a bulletin from the well-informed Cuban Information Service, edited in Coral Gables, Florida, by Carlos Todd. Says Mr. Todd: "The skipper of a Bahamian mail boat reported that a Cuban 'fishing craft' had chased his vessel for more than five hours last week. . . . Russian-built Cuban 'fishing boats' have been poaching in Bahaman fishing reserves for weeks."

To which Carlos Todd adds: "England is what England seems, and not the England of our dreams . . . but only putty, brass and paint . ." The last line of the poem—"How quick we'd chuck her, but she ain't"—does not appear in Editor Todd's commentary.

The Re-emergence Of Franz Josef Strauss

By Myron Kandel

BONN, Germany

For West German politicians the place to be seen this summer is the picturesque Bavarian lake area of the Tegernsee. What attracts them are not the water sports or the mountain scenery, but rather a portly, cigar-smoking former professor who is due to take over the reins of the West German government when 87-year-old Konrad Adenauer reluctantly steps down as Chancellor in October.

In the popular magazines, Ludwig Erhard, the Economics Minister, Vice Chancellor, and Chancellor-Designate, is pictured romping with his grandchildren on the lakefront lawns of his modern summer house at the Tegernsee. But he also has spent much of his time — when not called back to Bonn by affairs of state — in serious conferences with political leaders.

Of all those who have beaten a path to his door, none has aroused as much interest and concern, both within the government and without, as Franz Josef Strauss, the fiery former Defense Minister.

It is no secret that the outspoken Mr. Strauss is anxious to make a political comeback following his ouster from the cabinet last December in the aftermath of the arrest of the publisher and several staff members of the weekly news magazine, Der Spiegel.

Even after losing his Defense Ministry post, he was able to win a convincing re-election last month as chairman of the Christian Socialist Union, the Bavarian affiliate of Chancellor Adenauer's Christian Democratic Union.

But he did not regain the national spotlight until three weeks ago, when he began leading the intra-party fight against West German acceptance of the limited nuclear test ban treaty negotiated in Moscow by the United States, Britain, and the Soviet Union.

Despite repeated assurances from Washington and London that the treaty would not help the Communist East German regime gain diplomatic recognition, Mr. Strauss remained bitterly opposed to it. He has held to this view, even though he did not raise any objections while attending the cabinet meeting that officially decided last Friday to ratify the treaty.

Many people here believe that Mr. Strauss seized on the test-ban issue to project himself back onto the front pages. They also saw a desire to embarrass Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder, who strongly favored West German accession to the pact.

If these were his aims, Mr. Strauss succeeded admirably in the first one, but failed completely on the second. The 52-year-old Mr. Schroeder — who holds the post that Mr. Strauss would like to have and who is considered a good bet to follow Dr. Erhard into the Chancellorship, a path that Mr. Strauss once mapped out for himself — emerged as the victor on the issue.

The fact remains, however, that the Bavarian leader demonstrated a good deal of party support before finally bowing to the view that West Germany had to agree to the treaty or risk standing before world opinion with such other non-signers as Communist China, North Korea, Albania, and France as its partners. What Mr. Strauss succeeded in doing, even while waging a losing fight, was to resurrect his standing as a political power far more quickly than most observers thought possible eight months ago, when his national career appeared at an end following his ouster from the cabinet.

As a result, many people here are taking a hard look at the course Mr. Strauss might be taking. Some see his nationalist position on the test-ban treaty leading him into the Gaullist camp on other matters as well. But the French approach toward the United States and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization has won little popular support in West Germany, and what Mr. Strauss needs at this point is an issue with widespread appeal. He guessed wrong on opposition to the test ban pact, but might not do so next time.

Meanwhile, the former Defense Minister, buttressed by the 50 Bavarian deputies he heads, has Dr. Erhard's ear if not his confidence. At the same time, Dr. Erhad, as Chancellor, is certain to rely strongly on Mr. Schroeder's advice on foreign affairs. The in-fighting should be interesting.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

FAR-FETCHED — In the opinion of many impartial observers in Washington, it's about time for the TFX plane contract probers to bring sanity back into their investigation. The accusations of "conflict of interest" against high members of the Defense Department team for awarding the contract to General Dynamics are becoming too far-fetched for even this politically-charged capital.

Navy Secretary Fred Korth is one of the principals accused. He was president of a Fort Worth, Tex., bank when 18 months before the contract was let, it participated in extending a line of credit to the company to the extent of four per cent of the total. On that basis he's accused of having a biased interest in the contract.

Another victim is Air Force Secretary Eugene M. Zuckert, who is accused of bias because some of the work General Dynamics will do will be done in his home state of New York.

A third victim is Deputy Defense Secretary Roswell L. Gilpatrick, who served as one of a battery of lawyers for the company prior to entering government service.

Responsible members of Congress, as well as administration leaders, are seriously concerned over the loose and violent charges that are being hurled about — not only because they are unfounded and unjust, but because of a fear that this particular kind of irresponsibility ultimately will make other competent business executives shy away from government service.

It is unfortunately true that the lure of political capital has caused any number of administration opponents in both parties to swing wild and often at the McNamara Pentagon team. Politicians have tough skins, particularly in an election year, but business executives are not used to receiving the kind of barbs that are being thrown around in the too-long TFX investigation.

Daily Exercise Gets Rid Of Flabby Muscles

By Theodore R. Van Dellen

Some individuals never exercise because they have learned through experience that physical activity is followed by stiffness and soreness. If they are more persistent, in time aching will disappear and their muscles will increase in strength, bulk, and tone. The softie goes through the same experience as the athlete does during the first days of training.

The normal muscle is stretched between two points of insertion. It is elastic and ready to contract at a moment's notice. But with inactivity, the fibers become thin and elongated. When these flabby muscles are put to use, they have a double duty to perform because the slack must be taken up before a good contraction is possible. This leads to stiffness and cramping which can be relieved by heat and a few aspirins.

Muscular rheumatism (fibrositis) is more prevalent today because more of us are living a sedentary existence. The best remedy is to use rather than pamper the involved muscles. It is here that a little exercise every day goes a long way.

Many of those bothered periodically with a stiff neck can alleviate the condition by simple neck stretching exercises that take less than 5 minutes a day. (Send a self-addressed stamped envelope for leaflet on neck exercises).

Exercise also helps backache and stiffness of the shoulders. The best procedures are those employing resistance. Weight lifting, rowing machines, bicycling also help. The secret is to take it easy at first and be persistent. It is well to remember that a few minutes of exercise on a busy day is better than none. In time it becomes a habit.

We are not asking every man to be an athlete. But we do suggest that he use his muscles every day, as nature intended. Most housewives can forget what we have said because they get all the exercise they need keeping the home spic and span.

DAILY FLUIDS

Mrs. T. J. writes: I have a friend who does not drink water. She says that even a sip makes her sick. She claims that as long as she drinks tea or coffee every day, she is getting all the liquids she needs. Will you please comment on this problem?

REPLY

Your friend is right because fluids are fluids, whether in coffee, tea, soup, or fresh from the tap. She also obtains water from most solid foods she consumes.

SORE THROATS

N. R. writes: What would cause severe attacks of sore throat after the tonsils have been removed?

REPLY

Infection. Tonsillectomy may lessen the number of attacks of sore throat provided these structures were acting as the focus of infection, but does not guarantee against future throat infections.

EFFECTS OF CAFFEINE

B. F. writes: Why is it that the excessive use of coffee doesn't bother some people and makes others nervous?

REPLY

Because people differ in their response to drugs, including caffeine.

HEART HELPERS

E. C. writes: Does medicine help an enlarged heart?

REPLY

Yes. Drugs that lower blood pressure, for example, may reduce the size of the heart. Digitalis and diuretics are useful when dropsy ensues due to enlargement of the organ.

RESTLESSNESS HINT

Mrs. P. H. writes: I find some of your health hints tantalizing—for instance, "Restlessness can kill." I must know more.

REPLY

Restlessness is damaging if it raises blood pressure, leads to peptic ulcer, or interferes with appetite and sleep.

TOMORROW: Bites by rabid animals.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Leo Durocher reports that in one hotly contested ball game last summer, a rookie pitcher just brought up from the sticks, was hurriedly summoned from the bull pen.

Durocher told Shortstop Maury Wills, "This boy needs more warming up. When the ump signals 'Play ball,' make believe you've got something in your eye. It'll give the boy a chance to take a few more practice pitches."

Wills performed his part perfectly—so perfectly, in fact, that when he hollered, "Time out, please. I got something in my eye," the rookie pitcher came running over from the mound yelling, "Lemme get it out for you, Mr. Wills!"

Sandy McTavish (surely you remember him!) won two hundred thousand dollars with a sweepstakes ticket, and his friends were properly jubilant. Sandy asked, however, that they restrain themselves. "It wasn't as much as you lads seem to think," he cautioned them. "Remember that the ticket cost me five dollars."

State Rejects One-Way Plan For Midland

Inadequate Bridge Cited As Reason

MIDLAND — The Maryland State Roads Commission, through John B. Funk, chairman-director, has rejected a petition of the Mayor and Town Council to create a one-way traffic system on Route 36 and Chestnut Street here.

Mr. Funk gave as the commission's reason, the condition of a bridge over Neff Run on Chestnut Street.

John C. Sullivan, town attorney told Mayor Lionel D. Baker and members of the town council at their regular meeting this week, that Mr. Funk had be-n in sympathy with the request, but a survey shows that the Neff Run bridge is not adequate to meet load requirements of the state, and therefore could not be included or utilized in the state system.

Mr. Funk offered however, Mr. Sullivan explained, to provide the town with engineering and technical assistance so the town can bring the bridge to proper standards and specifications. When this is done the commission will again consider the town's request, he said.

Mayor Baker noted that the bridge was constructed of steel and concrete some 20 years ago according to state specifications at that time and was up to the state's required maximum loads.

The mayor and council wishes to initiate one-way traffic through the town, routing traffic from Route 36 along Chestnut Street one-way, as a safety factor. Council points out that Route 36 through the town is narrow, congested and inadequate for two-way traffic. Numerous serious accidents have occurred on Route 36 and council feels that the one-way idea is desirable for safety as well as convenience.

Midland Council Orders Vote On Cable Television

Special Referendum September 17

MIDLAND — A special election will be held in the Town Hall here on September 17 from 1 to 7 p.m. on the question of cable television for the community.

According to Mayor Lionel D. Baker and members of the town council, the question has been brought before the town's governing body on a number of occasions. Delegations from Railroad Street, Main Street and Union Street have appeared before council and numerous individuals have urged action on the question. Petitions have been filed.

Mayor Baker said council members had conducted an informal survey and discussed the question with many citizens. In all sections, there appears to be a fairly equal division of opinion for and against the proposal, the mayor explains.

In view of this situation, and in order to bring the question to a conclusion, council members at their regular meeting voted to hold a special referendum.

Mayor Baker stated that a special Registration Day will be held Tuesday, September 3 at Town Hall to give all qualified voters a chance to get their names on the books.

Registration, he explains, is open to any citizen of the United States who has been residents of the state of Maryland for at least one year and is 21 years of age preceding any town election. Such individuals shall be eligible to register and to vote in all town elections. This special registration is being held, he added, to encourage all qualified citizens to get their names on the poll books and express their sentiments on the Cable TV question.

Registration and the election will be in charge of City Clerk John E. Kesner. Council will appoint election clerks to assist Mr. Kesner in his election duties.

The bidding:

3 ♣	Pass	3 ♡	Pass
4 ♡	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Six of ♠

In today's hand South's bid of three hearts on the second round may appear to some players a distinct effort to be "fancy." Actually that was not his intention. After North's raise to three clubs, he could, of course, on the basis of values held, leap directly to five clubs, but there is always the temptation to seek a shorter way home and he did not wish to abandon the prospect of a three no trump contract if North had some mild stopper in spades. North on the other hand could hardly be blamed for taking South at his word and proceeding quite reasonably to four hearts. It is true that South might have retreated to the more comfortable terrain of five clubs, but in a sporting mood he decided to fight it out in hearts. With a bit of coöperation on the part of the defenders he was able to bring home the somewhat bizarre contract.

West led his fourth best spade and the five was played from the dummy. East put up the ace and returned the jack. He hoped to put West back in with the king in order to obtain a diamond shift thru North's holding. West won the second spade trick, but unfortunately he misread East's purpose. West, perhaps unwisely, decided that East had a doubleton spade and wished to overruff the dummy on the next round.

A diamond was discarded from dummy on West's spade return and South ruffed in his hand. A club was led over to the king and a heart was returned. When East played low, South put in the jack of hearts which held the trick. The ace of hearts was cashed as all hands followed and another club was led to the ten. East showed out, discarding a diamond. The king of hearts was cashed and, when the queen did not appear, East was revealed to have a trump trick.

South could at this point continue to lead clubs until East ruffed in with his high trump, but in so doing he would give up all chance to make the contract, for he has no entries left to his hand to run the good clubs. He therefore led the dummy's remaining trump and conceded East his heart trick. If the latter had one more spade, the defense would have been able to cash the setting tricks in that suit. Fortunately for South, his opponent had to exit with a diamond and declarer took the rest of the tricks.

A five club contract would have gone on the rocks when the diamond finesse failed. West could and probably should have defeated four hearts by shifting to a diamond at trick three. Since South has bid clubs first, and later called hearts, it becomes increasingly unlikely that he will be found with as many as three spades.

Old Poor Farm Antiques Are Believed Stolen

Police Investigate Theft Near Romney

ROMNEY — Hampshire County authorities are investigating the breaking and entering of a residence in the Romney area from which a number of reportedly valuable antiques has been stolen.

The residence is the old county "Poor Farm," purchased recently by David and John Harmison, who owns an adjoining farm.

The Harmisons told West Virginia State Police the place was entered some time between Sunday and Wednesday morning. It has not been determined how entry was affected, but each door to the individual rooms was forced open and the rooms ransacked.

Although the Harmisons have no inventory of everything the structure contained, it is known that a number of potentially valuable lamps and stools have been taken.

Trooper James I. Plybon is heading the investigation. The "Poor Farm" is located about nine miles south of Romney on the River Road.

Eight presidents of the United States have come from Ohio—W. H. Harrison, Grant, Hayes, Garfield, Benjamin Harrison, McKinley, Taft, Harding—all but W. H. Harrison born in the state.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ◇	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
3 ♣	Pass	3 ♡	Pass
4 ♡	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Six of ♠

In today's hand South's bid of three hearts on the second round may appear to some players a distinct effort to be "fancy." Actually that was not his intention. After North's raise to three clubs, he could, of course, on the basis of values held, leap directly to five clubs, but there is always the temptation to seek a shorter way home and he did not wish to abandon the prospect of a three no trump contract if North had some mild stopper in spades. North on the other hand could hardly be blamed for taking South at his word and proceeding quite reasonably to four hearts. It is true that South might have retreated to the more comfortable terrain of five clubs, but in a sporting mood he decided to fight it out in hearts. With a bit of cooperation on the part of the defenders he was able to bring home the somewhat bizarre contract.

West led his fourth best spade and the five was played from the dummy. East put up the ace and returned the jack. He hoped to put West back in with the king in order to obtain a diamond shift thru North's holding. West won the second spade trick, but unfortunately he misread East's purpose. West, perhaps unwisely, decided that East had a doubleton spade and wished to overruff the dummy on the next round.

A diamond was discarded from dummy on West's spade return and South ruffed in his hand. A club was led over to the king and a heart was returned. When East played low, South put in the jack of hearts which held the trick. The ace of hearts was cashed as all hands followed and another club was led to the ten. East showed out, discarding a diamond. The king of hearts was cashed and, when the queen did not appear, East was revealed to have a trump trick.

South could at this point continue to lead clubs until East ruffed in with his high trump, but in so doing he would give up all chance to make the contract, for he has no entries left to his hand to run the good clubs. He therefore led the dummy's remaining trump and conceded East his heart trick. If the latter had one more spade, the defense would have been able to cash the setting tricks in that suit. Fortunately for South, his opponent had to exit with a diamond and declarer took the rest of the tricks.

A five club contract would have gone on the rocks when the diamond finesse failed. West could and probably should have defeated four hearts by shifting to a diamond at trick three. Since South has bid clubs first, and later called hearts, it becomes increasingly unlikely that he will be found with as many as three spades.

Old Poor Farm Antiques Are Believed Stolen

Police Investigate Theft Near Romney

ROMNEY — Hampshire County authorities are investigating the breaking and entering of a residence in the Romney area from which a number of reportedly valuable antiques has been stolen.

The residence is the old county "Poor Farm," purchased recently by David and John Harmison, who owns an adjoining farm.

The Harmisons told West Virginia State Police the place was entered some time between Sunday and Wednesday morning. It has not been determined how entry was affected, but each door to the individual rooms was forced open and the rooms ransacked.

Although the Harmisons have no inventory of everything the structure contained, it is known that a number of potentially valuable lamps and stools have been taken.

Trooper James I. Plybon is heading the investigation. The "Poor Farm" is located about nine miles south of Romney on the River Road.

Eight presidents of the United States have come from Ohio—W. H. Harrison, Grant, Hayes, Garfield, Benjamin Harrison, McKinley, Taft, Harding—all but W. H. Harrison born in the state.

Salvation Army Wins Hot Stove Baseball League Championship

Art DeLozier's Tossers Defeat Lions Club, 3-2

McKenney's Single Wins Game In 7th; Ted Malloy Victor

Successive singles by Mike Beeman, Barry Turano and Jack McKenney produced the tie-breaking run in the top of the 7th and final inning as Manager Arthur "Shorty" DeLozier's Salvation Army tossers defeated the Lions Club last evening at Penn Avenue Field by the score of 3-2 and won the championship of the Hot Stove Baseball League.

McKenney's game-winning single up the middle gave Lefty Teddy Malloy the verdict over Gene Wright in a neat pitching duel as the Salvation Army won its first title in the three years of competition in the circuit.

Leader of the Stoves Division at the end of the regular season with an 18-4 record, the Salvation Army made short work of its opposition in the playoffs by sweeping four straight games from the Outdoor Club, 15-2 and 10-3 and the Lions Club 14-1 and 3-2 in a pair of best-of-three series. The S.A. boys concluded their season with a record of 22 wins and four losses.

Malloy limited the Lions to six hits and fanned six to register his seventh win of the campaign against three setbacks. Wright gave up nine hits and suffered his second loss against six victories.

Blair Norris excelled at short for the Lions Club.

Mike Beeman accounted for two of the winning team's nine blows while Malloy smacked a two-bagger. Wright collected a triple and single, Pancho Klosterman garnered two singles and Perky Yates banged a two-base hit for the Lions who finished first in the Hots Division during the regular season with a 14-8 mark and wound up with an overall record of 16-10. The Lions, managed by John Daum, eliminated the Jaycees in two straight, 1-0 and 5-4, to challenge the Salvation Army in the finals.

Baltimore Beats Los Angeles, 5-1

BALTIMORE (AP)—Boog Powell continued his hot batting streak and rookie pitcher Dave McNally hurled his first complete game since April 20 as the Baltimore Orioles whipped the Los Angeles Angels 5-1 Thursday night.

Powell, who has hit .432 in the last 11 games, hit a two-run homer in the first inning after Los Angeles right fielder Ken Hunt dropped Russ Snyder's line drive for the first of five Los Angeles errors.

The Angels made two more errors, and losing pitcher Dean Chance made a late throw to third base on a sacrifice bunt, as Baltimore scored two runs in the fourth inning.

The final Oriole run scored in the eighth off reliever Jack Spring on a walk, two infield outs and a throwing error by third baseman Felix Torres.

McNally, who upped his record to 6-5 with a five-hitter, gave up a run in the opening inning on a triple by Jim Fregosi and a wild pitch.

Los Angeles Manager Bill Rigney and coach Del Rice were ejected from the game by Umpire Larry Napp when they disputed a called strike in the eighth inning.

Moose Defeat Caseys, 1-0, Reach R.C. Playoff Finals

Keyser's Sacrifice Fly Scores Lone Run, Phillips Wins 10th

Scoring the only run of the game in the first inning on two errors, an intentional pass and Bob Keyser's sacrifice fly to right field, the Loyal Order of Moose defeated the Caseys yesterday at Stitcher Field by the score of 1-0 and qualified for the playoff finals in the Rocking Chair Softball League.

The Moose team made a two-game sweep in the semi-final round, winning the opener by the score of 2-1.

Yesterday's game was the fifth 1-0 contest staged in the league this season. It was also the twenty-first shutout, six of which were scored by the Moose.

Hayden Phillips, who received credit for both wins, boosted his season record to 10-3. He gave up six hits, fanned six and failed to issue a pass in Thursday's contest.

Don Decker, who went the route for the Caseys, surrendered only three hits, singles by Paul McGregor, "Bunk" Warnick and Phillips, walked two and struck out two and finished the season with a 7-7 record.

In the first inning Donnie Madden and John Price got aboard on errors and after Pete Cecil was given an intentional pass to load the bases, Harry Widdows flied out. Then Keyser delivered the sacrifice fly that scored Madden.

The victory gave the Moose a 6-0 record against the Caseys for the season. One game ended in a 3-3 tie.

Mickey Clark and Hudson shared four of the Caseys' six safeties.

The Moose will play the winner of the VFW-Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company series in the best-of-five final series which will be staged next week. The Vets and PPG clash today at 6:15 p. m., at Stitcher Field in the "rubber" game of their three game series.

Score:

Salvation Army Wins Hot Stove Baseball League Championship

Art DeLozier's Tossers Defeat Lions Club, 3-2

McKenney's Single Wins Game In 7th; Ted Malloy Victor

Successive singles by Mike Beeman, Barry Turano and Jack McKenney produced the tie-breaking run in the top of the 7th and final inning as Manager Arthur "Shorty" DeLozier's Salvation Army tossers defeated the Lions Club last evening at Penn Avenue Field by the score of 3-2 and won the championship of the Hot Stove Baseball League.

McKenney's game-winning single up the middle gave Lefty Teddy Malloy the verdict over Gene Wright in a neat pitching duel as the Salvation Army won its first title in the three years of competition in the circuit.

Leader of the Stoves Division at the end of the regular season with an 18-4 record, the Salvation Army made short work of its opposition in the playoffs by sweeping four straight games from the Outdoor Club, 15-2 and 10-3 and the Lions Club 14-1 and 3-2 in a pair of best-of-three series. The S.A. boys concluded their season with a record of 22 wins and four losses.

Malloy limited the Lions to six hits and fanned six to register his seventh win of the campaign against three setbacks. Wright gave up nine hits and suffered his second loss against six victories.

Blair Norris excelled at short for the Lions Club.

Mike Beeman accounted for two of the winning team's nine blows while Malloy smacked a two-bagger. Wright collected a triple and single, Pancho Klosterman garnered two singles and Perky Yates banged a two-base hit for the Lions who finished first in the Hots Division during the regular season with a 14-8 mark and wound up with an overall record of 16-10. The Lions, managed by John Daum, eliminated the Jaycees in two straight, 1-0 and 5-4, to challenge the Salvation Army in the finals.

Lefty Dave McNally Wins For Orioles

Baltimore Beats Los Angeles, 5-1

BALTIMORE (AP)—Boog Powell continued his hot batting streak and rookie pitcher Dave McNally hurled his first complete game since April 20 as the Baltimore Orioles whipped the Los Angeles Angels 5-1 Thursday night.

Powell, who has hit .432 in the last 11 games, hit a two-run homer in the first inning after Los Angeles right fielder Ken Hunt dropped Russ Snyder's line drive for the first of five Los Angeles errors.

The Angels made two more errors, and losing pitcher Dean Chance made a late throw to third base on a sacrifice bunt, as Baltimore scored two runs in the fourth inning.

The final Oriole run scored in the eighth off reliever Jack Spring on a walk, two infield outs and a throwing error by third baseman Felix Torres.

McNally, who upped his record to 6-5 with a five-hitter, gave up a run in the opening inning on a triple by Jim Fregosi and a wild pitch.

Los Angeles Manager Bill Rigney and coach Del Rice were ejected from the game by Umpire Larry Napp when they disputed a called strike in the eighth inning.

Moose Defeat Caseys, 1-0, Reach R.C. Playoff Finals

Keyser's Sacrifice Fly Scores Lone Run, Phillips Wins 10th

Scoring the only run of the game in the first inning on two errors, an intentional pass and Bob Keyser's sacrifice fly to right field, the Loyal Order of Moose defeated the Caseys yesterday at Stitcher Field by the score of 1-0 and qualified for the playoff finals in the Rocking Chair Softball League.

The Moose team made a two-game sweep in the semi-final round, winning the opener by the score of 2-1.

Yesterday's game was the fifth 1-0 contest staged in the league this season. It was also the twenty-first shutout, six of which were scored by the Moose.

Hayden Phillips, who received credit for both wins, boosted his season record to 10-3. He gave up six hits, fanned six and failed to issue a pass in Thursday's contest.

Don Decker, who went the route for the Caseys, surrendered only three hits, singles by Paul McGregor, "Bunk" Warnick and Phillips, walked two and struck out two and finished the season with a 7-7 record.

In the first inning Donnie Madden and John Price got aboard on errors and after Pete Cecil was given an intentional pass to load the bases, Harry Widdows flied out. Then Keyser delivered the sacrifice fly that scored Madden.

The victory gave the Moose a 6-0 record against the Caseys for the season. One game ended in a 3-3 tie.

Mickey Clark and Hudson shared four of the Caseys' six safeties.

The Moose will play the winner of the VFW-Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company series in the best-of-five final series which will be staged next week. The Vets and PPG clash today at 6:15 p. m., at Stitcher Field in the "rubber" game of their three game series.

Boros, Pott, Barber Shoot 67s, Pace American Golf Classic

Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus Trail By Three

Six Tie For Second With 69s In First Round At Firestone

By LEO H. PETERSEN
UPI Sports Editor

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — U. S. Open champion Julius Boros, Missouri-born Johnny Pott and Texas' Miller Barber shot three-under-par 67's Thursday to tie for the lead in the first round of the $55,000 American Golf Classic.

That gave them a two-stroke lead over former PGA champ Jay Herbert, Bruce Crampton, Dave Hill, Al Geiberger, Jay Brewer and Dave Marr. All carded one-under-par 69's.

Palmer Cards 70

Another stroke back with even par 70's over the long Firestone Country Club Course came favored Arnold Palmer, the defending champion; Jack Nicklaus, the Masters and PGA king; big George Bayer, and former U.S. Open champ Ed Furgol.

Ted Kroll and Rex Baxter, among the last to finish, also shot 70's, making it a six-man tie for that score. Kroll shot 34-36 and Baxter 35-35.

Boros, who had 43 is having his best year of a long golfing career with money-winnings of $70,956 — behind only Palmer and Nicklaus — was the first of the tied trio to come in with a 67. He did it despite an erratic driver as he cut his nines of 33 and 34 over the 7,165-yard course with its 35-35—70 par.

Barber, who is 31, and playing only his third year on the tour, came in to tie Boros, sinking a 16-foot birdie putt on the 17th green. Then the 27-year-old Pott rammed in a 20-foot birdie putt on the 18th green to make it a three-way tie.

Barber's nines were the same as Boros' while Pott reversed it with a 33-34.

Jay Herbert, Crampton and Gieberger, had nines of 35 and 34, Hill and Brewer 36 and 33, while Marr was out in 32, three under, but needed a 37 coming home.

Palmer, who scrambled at the start then settled down, had nines of 36 and 34 while Nicklaus had even pars of 35 on each nine. Bayer shot 37-33 and Furgol 36-34.

Trail By Four

Four strokes off the pace with 71's came Gary Player, Tommy Bolt, Mac Main, Lionel Herbert, Bo Winiger, Bobby Nichols, Don January, Bob Duden, Bruce Devlin and Tony Lema, while the group at 72 included British Open champ Bob Charles, Ken Venturi, Gardner Dickinson, Fred Hawkins, Joe Campbell and Jerry Steelsmith.

Boros was grateful for his hot putter.

Seven times his tee shots were off line, five of them finding the rough and two other bunkers, but he made up for those mistakes by requiring only 28 putts.

Juan Marichal Bags 19th Win For Giants, 8-6

Snaps San Francisco 5-Game Loss Streak

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —Juan Marichal survived a grand slam homerun by Joe Torre to pitch his 19th win of the season Thursday and give the San Francisco Giants an 8-6 victory over the Milwaukee Braves.

The win, which set a new career high for the San Francisco righthander, snapped a five-game Giant losing streak and cut off the Braves after they had won five in a row.

Torre's grand slam, the first in his career and his first homer at Candlestick Park, came in the eighth inning when Marichal was apparently coasting to an easy victory. Two singles and a walk loaded the bases before the Milwaukee first sacker hit his 11th homer of the season to close the gap to 8-6.

The Giants got the ultimate winning margin in the seventh inning on a triple by Willie McCovey and a single by Willie Mays, who later scored on a passed ball.

Marichal allowed seven hits, walked four batters and fanned six. Starter Tony Cloninger took the loss and evened his record 8-8.

Stuart Hits 33d Homer, Red Sox Win

Boston Crushes White Sox, 11-2

BOSTON (AP)—Eddie Bressoud hit his first major league grand slam homer and drove in six runs and Dick Stuart belted his 33rd home run of the season Thursday, giving the Boston Red Sox an 11-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Bressoud's blast came in the five-run seventh after Lu Clinton was intentionally passed to load the bases. The former National League shortstop hit the next pitch thrown by relief hurler Taylor Phillips.

Bressoud also drove in two runs with sacrifice flies in the second and eighth.

The Stuart home run, the second of his three hits, increased his American League lead in both the home run and RBI race. Stuart now has 93 RBI.

Indians Whip Yankees, 7-4

Blanchard Clouts Grand Slam Homer

NEW YORK (AP)—With quiet restored on the field after Wednesday night's free-for-all, the Cleveland Indians smashed three homers, two triples and two doubles Thursday to wallop the first-place New York Yankees 7-4 and gain a split of their four-game series.

All of the Yankee runs came in the sixth inning on a grand slam homer by John Blanchard off Jim Grant. However, by that time the Indians had piled up a 6-0 lead off Ralph Terry and thwarted a Yankee threat in the eighth that left two on.

When Joe Pepitone singled and Blanchard walked in the eighth, Gary Bell replaced Grant and stifled any further Yankee threat.

Six Tie For Second With 69s In First Round At Firestone

By LEO H. PETERSEN
UPI Sports Editor

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — U. S. Open champion Julius Boros, Missouri-born Johnny Pott and Texas' Miller Barber shot three-under-par 67's Thursday to tie for the lead in the first round of the $55,000 American Golf Classic.

That gave them a two-stroke lead over former PGA champ Jay Herbert, Bruce Crampton, Dave Hill, Al Geiberger, Jay Brewer and Dave Marr. All carded one-under-par 69's.

Palmer Cards 70

Another stroke back with even par 70's over the long Firestone Country Club Course came favored Arnold Palmer, the defending champion; Jack Nicklaus, the Masters and PGA king; big George Bayer, and former U.S. Open champ Ed Furgol.

Ted Kroll and Rex Baxter, among the last to finish, also shot 70's, making it a six-man tie for that score. Kroll shot 34-36 and Baxter 35-35.

Boros, who had 43 is having his best year of a long golfing career with money-winnings of $70,956 — behind only Palmer and Nicklaus — was the first of the tied trio to come in with a 67. He did it despite an erratic driver as he cut his nines of 33 and 34 over the 7,165-yard course with its 35-35—70 par.

Barber, who is 31, and playing only his third year on the tour, came in to tie Boros, sinking a 16-foot birdie putt on the 17th green. Then the 27-year-old Pott rammed in a 20-foot birdie putt on the 18th green to make it a three-way tie.

Barber's nines were the same as Boros' while Pott reversed it with a 33-34.

Jay Herbert, Crampton and Gieberger, had nines of 35 and 34, Hill and Brewer 36 and 33, while Marr was out in 32, three under, but needed a 37 coming home.

Palmer, who scrambled at the start then settled down, had nines of 36 and 34 while Nicklaus had even pars of 35 on each nine. Bayer shot 37-33 and Furgol 36-34.

Trail By Four

Four strokes off the pace with 71's came Gary Player, Tommy Bolt, Mac Main, Lionel Herbert, Bo Winiger, Bobby Nichols, Don January, Bob Duden, Bruce Devlin and Tony Lema, while the group at 72 included British Open champ Bob Charles, Ken Venturi, Gardner Dickinson, Fred Hawkins, Joe Campbell and Jerry Steelsmith.

Boros was grateful for his hot putter.

Seven times his tee shots were off line, five of them finding the rough and two other bunkers, but he made up for those mistakes by requiring only 28 putts.

Juan Marichal Bags 19th Win For Giants, 8-6

Snaps San Francisco 5-Game Loss Streak

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —Juan Marichal survived a grand slam homerun by Joe Torre to pitch his 19th win of the season Thursday and give the San Francisco Giants an 8-6 victory over the Milwaukee Braves.

The win, which set a new career high for the San Francisco righthander, snapped a five-game Giant losing streak and cut off the Braves after they had won five in a row.

Torre's grand slam, the first in his career and his first homer at Candlestick Park, came in the eighth inning when Marichal was apparently coasting to an easy victory. Two singles and a walk loaded the bases before the Milwaukee first sacker hit his 11th homer of the season to close the gap to 8-6.

The Giants got the ultimate winning margin in the seventh inning on a triple by Willie McCovey and a single by Willie Mays, who later scored on a passed ball.

Marichal allowed seven hits, walked four batters and fanned six. Starter Tony Cloninger took the loss and evened his record 8-8.

Stuart Hits 33d Homer, Red Sox Win

Boston Crushes White Sox, 11-2

BOSTON (AP)—Eddie Bressoud hit his first major league grand slam homer and drove in six runs and Dick Stuart belted his 33rd home run of the season Thursday, giving the Boston Red Sox an 11-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Bressoud's blast came in the five-run seventh after Lu Clinton was intentionally passed to load the bases. The former National League shortstop hit the next pitch thrown by relief hurler Taylor Phillips.

Bressoud also drove in two runs with sacrifice flies in the second and eighth.

The Stuart home run, the second of his three hits, increased his American League lead in both the home run and RBI race. Stuart now has 93 RBI.

Indians Whip Yankees, 7-4

Blanchard Clouts Grand Slam Homer

NEW YORK (AP)—With quiet restored on the field after Wednesday night's free-for-all, the Cleveland Indians smashed three homers, two triples and two doubles Thursday to wallop the first-place New York Yankees 7-4 and gain a split of their four-game series.

All of the Yankee runs came in the sixth inning on a grand slam homer by John Blanchard off Jim Grant. However, by that time the Indians had piled up a 6-0 lead off Ralph Terry and thwarted a Yankee threat in the eighth that left two on.

When Joe Pepitone singled and Blanchard walked in the eighth, Gary Bell replaced Grant and stifled any further Yankee threat.

Baltimore Colts Squad Cut To 47

WESTMINSTER, Md. (AP) — The active training squad of the Baltimore Colts was reduced to 47 Thursday with the removal of defensive backs John Murio and Fred Gaston.

Gaston, who is in a hospital with a back ailment, was put on the injured reserve list for the entire National Football League season. A graduate of Wayne State, he had a trial last season with the Cleveland Browns and played with the semi-pro Brooklyn, Md., Broncos.

Murio, a Whitworth College grad, was picked up by the Colts two weeks ago after he was put on waivers by the Minnesota Vikings.

Pirates Sweep 3-Game Series With Chicago

Clemente Hits Grand Slam In 9-3 Victory

CHICAGO (AP)—Donn Clendenon's double followed by Jim Pagliaroni's single in the sixth inning broke a 3-3 tie and sparked the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 9-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs Thursday and a sweep of their three-game series.

The Pirates really broke the game wide open in the ninth with five runs on Alvin McBean's run scoring double and Roberto Clemente's homer with the bases full, his first grand slammer.

WESTMINSTER, Md. (AP) — The active training squad of the Baltimore Colts was reduced to 47 Thursday with the removal of defensive backs John Murio and Fred Gaston.

Murio, a Whitworth College grad, was picked up by the Colts two weeks ago after he was put on waivers by the Minnesota Vikings.

Zoning Board Defers Action On Apartments

Turns Down Bid For Home Permit

The Board of Zoning Appeals last night deferred action on an application for an apartment project in the North End and disapproved an application for a home.

The application of the Atlas Allegany Homes, Inc., to build four apartment buildings on lots on Holland Street and Sylvan Avenue was held over for investigation at the suggestion of James C. Gardner, chairman.

He told the delegation attending the hearing that the board will try to expedite its decision but that it would not be reached that night.

About two dozen residents of the Holland Street area attended the hearing to protest the construction of the apartment houses in the residential area devoted largely to one-story homes.

Speaking for the project was James W. Balderston, president, who said plans call for the construction of four two-story dwellings, each designed for four families.

Will Check Space

Two of the buildings would be located on a 112-by-173-foot lot facing Holland Street, and the others on a 200-by-124-foot lot on Sylvan Avenue.

During the early stage of the hearing, Mr. Gardner noted that the report of the building engineer indicates the plan contains sufficient open space.

This was disputed by Hunter B. Helfrich, former city commissioner, and the board asked for his figures so the issue could be settled.

Mr. Helfrich submitted a petition signed by 51 residents of the area and protesting the development.

The board made it clear it will insist that sufficient yard space is provided. He said the board will also have to decide whether the design for the apartment project is congenial with the neighborhood.

Mr. Helfrich cited a number of objections to the apartments which would put 16 families in the limited space.

He said the area lacks water pressure, that the additional units would create a fire hazard, that sewer lines are inadequate for present dwellings and pop manholes during heavy rains, and that parking facilities are not available for 16 more families.

Permit Disapproved

He said residents of the area have developed a nice neighborhood and feel that an apartment development would complicate the way of life there, and that plans do not provide enough ground.

The board disapproved the application of Thomas L. Popp, 231 North Lee Street, to build a one-story home on an odd-shaped lot at the intersection of Edgevale and Glenmore streets.

Inadequate space on the lot was cited by the board in turning down the occupancy permit.

Forest Exhibit Is Popular

Many exhibits of interest to patrons of the 46th annual Cumberland Fair are being shown this week at Fairgo although the entry of the Maryland Department of Forests and Parks seems to stand out.

The exhibit, near the Jockey Club, is amid cool pine trees and accentuates the real loss caused by forest fires, not only to the potential lumber supply and to the soil through erosion, but also to wildlife.

After the purpose of the exhibit was explained to two cute little blonde girls, one of them said, "I believe I like it when there isn't no forest fires."

Products of the forest for everyday use, tree fruits and edible nuts are in the exhibit, which includes a cross-section of a chestnut oak, believed to have started growing in 1610, over 350 years ago. The tree was cut recently at Piney Dam on the Frostburg watershed.

A cross-section of other trees also is in the display, and there is a piece of petrified wood for those who wonder what it looks like.

Pictures on a large bulletin board show timber stand improvement practices.

Man Faces Jury Trial In Assault

Robert O'Neal, 26, Released On Bond

A young Cresaptown man was released on $1,000 bond yesterday to await a jury trial on charges of assaulting a State Police officer, resisting arrest and disturbing the peace.

The man, Robert O'Neal, 26, was taken before Magistrate Leslie J. Clark and State's Attorney James S. Getty prayed a jury trial on all charges against the Cresaptown man.

Bonds on all three charges totaled $1,000 for O'Neal's appearance in Allegany County Circuit Court.

O'Neal was arrested Wednesday evening following a disturbance at the office of Magistrate Thomas G. Barton in Cresaptown.

O'Neal was charged with assaulting Trooper Paul J. Fiorita and resisting arrest by Trooper Fiorita. Sgt. Charles H. DeWitt of the State Police assisted in the arrest.

Mr. Getty said he prayed the jury in the case because the charge of assaulting a police officer is a serious one.

PE Is Ordered To Lower Rates In Maryland

To Be 13th Major Cut In 30 Years

By GEORGE BOWEN

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Public Service Commission ruled Thursday that Potomac Edison Co. has been charging its Maryland customers more for electricity than justified for a reasonable profit.

The commission for the first time in its 53-year existence ordered a utility to reduce its rates temporarily.

It gave Potomac 30 days to submit for approval a lower schedule that would reduce its revenue by the equivalent of $850,000 a year.

Approximately 88,000 customers in Garrett, Allegany, Washington, Frederick and parts of Montgomery and Carroll counties will benefit.

The temporary, lower rates would prevail until the PSC holds a full-fledged hearing, probably next year, on determination of a new permanent schedule.

Cites Earnings

It acted Thursday after brief testimony by two witnesses.

Thomas E. Cosgrove Jr., chief auditor for the PSC, said that according to his calculations based on Company reports, PE's rate of return on its investment averaged more than 8 per cent for the past five years.

He said he figured that on the basis of the utility's return of 6½ per cent fixed by the commission, it earned an excess of $1 million last year.

The excess earnings, Cosgrove said, were despite a voluntary reduction in rates made in 1960 by Potomac after an audit by the PSC.

Allan M. Creed, comptroller for the utility, argued that about a dozen adjustments, not considered by the PSC auditor, should be made in determining the percentage of earned income.

Creed said if these figures were allowed, the utility's rate of return would be only 6.6 per cent, within what he called the zone of tolerance.

Hearing Slated

However, in less than half an hour of private consultation, the three-member commission announced through Chairman Albert L. Sklar that Potomac was charging "higher than just and reasonable rates."

Sklar said a temporary reduction was necessary "in the interest of justice" since there will be

Fair Exhibit Top Winners Are Announced

Emergency Dinner Display Is Cited

Some of the top winners in various exhibits now on display at the 46th annual Cumberland Fair were announced yesterday by Mrs. Martin Gordon, chief clerk.

In a special group display of household exhibits, Mrs. Winnie Grove, RD 4, won the blue ribbon for her emergency dinner consisting of five jars of preserved food.

Her entry included tomato juice, beef, lima beans, kale and applesauce. Rounding out her menu were rolls and butter, coffee or iced tea. Judging is based on nutrition value, color, appetizing effect and the menu. Seven other homemakers vied for the top honors.

Sweepstakes Winners

In the open class vegetables exhibit, John P. Ashenfelter of 31 Somerville Avenue won the tomato sweepstakes with his plate of Rutgers tomatoes.

Merlin Barb of Spring Gap took the blue ribbon in the apple sweepstakes with his entry of Grimes Golden apples. Mrs. Gordon pointed out that among the outstanding entries in the fruit open class competition were a quart of blueberries and nectarines entered by H. Chris Elder, 807 Bedford Street.

The blue ribbon for the prize loaf of white bread went to Mrs. Ethel Lease of Lonaconing who competed with 12 other homemakers.

Three Blue Ribbons

Mrs. Gordon said it was rather unusual that Mrs. Edwin Heavner of McMullen Highway won blue ribbons for three entries of cookies including refrigerator, drop and rolled cookies.

Suzanne Weatherholt, of RD 2, city, a member of the Union Grove Girls 4-H Club, walked off with prizes for four complete costumes she submitted. A complete costume consists of a dress with all of the accessories including shoes, hat, purse and gloves. A coat also is entered in the judging.

John H. Lindner of Shade's Lane won top prizes in the honey and beeswax department. Mrs. Fern Wilson, 312 Caroline Street, placed second in the honey division and John V. Lindner, 188 North Centre Street, placed third.

Paul McFarland of Ridgeley placed second in the beeswax, Mrs. Wilson, third, and Ray Wiseman of Elk Garden, fourth.

Wesley Gordon, who won the Boys 4-H Club tractor driving event, won first and second prizes for the White Rock hens he entered in the Future Farmer of America poultry exhibits. Larry Haines, RD 1, Oldtown, placed third and fourth.

Gordon also won a blue ribbon for his White Leghorn cock entry. Carl Thomas, RD 2, city, won the four top prizes for his entries of White Leghorn hens.

In the New Hampshire Red class of chickens, Carl Thomas was first and Haines second and third.

District Legion Meeting Slated In Westernport

Department Board Plans Area Session

Officials of Mountain District, American Legion, will meet Sunday at 2:15 p. m. at the home of Victory Post No. 155 in Westernport, according to James Wills, district commander.

Plans will be made during the session for a Mountain District seminar and for a Department of Maryland executive committee meeting.

The Mountain District seminar will be held Sunday, September 22, at the home of Victory Post 155 and will be in charge of Thomas McCall, Department of Maryland commander.

Talks will be made by Robert Eaton, senior vice commander, policy; Philmore Fleming, junior vice commander, membership, and Daniel Burkhart, department adjutant, finances and administration.

An engraved gavel will be presented to the district commander who has the top attendance at the fall seminar. The award was made to Mr. Fleming last year after it was noted that 55 members, representing 11 of the 12 posts in the district attended.

Plans will also be made for the Department Executive Committee session which will be held November 17 at 1:30 p. m. at the Victory Post home.

Mr. Wills said district officials will make plans for housing and entertain the department officials during their visit here.

He said many of the Legionnaires from the Baltimore area plan to come here on Saturday and remain overnight for the Sunday meeting.

Tractor Driving Contest Won By Breakneck 4-H'er

After placing second during the past two years of competition, Wesley Gordon, 18, of Flintstone, finally came through yesterday with a low score of 491 to win top honors in the Boys 4-H Club tractor driving contest held during the 46th annual Cumberland Fair.

His closest rival in a field of six contestants was James Lashley of Mt. Savage, who ran up a total of 850 points. James Cosgrove, Valley Road, placed third with 927 points.

Jeff Graham, also of Valley Road; Michael Miltenberger, Ridgeley; and James Robison, Mt. Savage, placed fourth, fifth and sixth respectively.

The weather was hot and humid during the contest.

Young Gordon is a member of the Breakneck 4-H Club, graduated from Flintstone High School this June and plans to study general agriculture at the University of Maryland.

Gordon will represent Allegany County next week at the state fair in Timonium and will compete with boys from throughout Maryland in the tractor driving competition.

He was a tribe leader this month during the 4-H Club Week program. He lives with his parents on their 185-acre farm in the Flintstone area. Wesley is interested in farming. His father, Martin Gordon, is work unit conservationist of the Soil Conservation Service.

Lonaconing Considering Annexation

Town Council Views 10 Areas

A plan to annex 10 areas in the Georges Creek Valley to Lonaconing is being considered by the Mayor and Town Council of Lonaconing, it was disclosed last night.

According to Mayor Dewey G. Burns, the town council at this week's meeting discussed the idea at some length, and all members of the council favor the annexation.

Areas desirable for annexation include Charlestown, Detmold, Douglas Avenue extended, Dudley Street area, Beachwood, Watercliffe and Florida Way areas, Rockville, St. Mary's Terrace area and State Street, which is Route 36 north.

Mayor Burns explained that any annexation program must be formally initiated by residents in the areas now outside the corporate limits. Twenty-five per cent of the voters and twenty-five per cent of the property owners must approve before the council can act.

Referendum Provided

After the council takes formal action toward annexation, residents of the town and the area to be annexed have the right to petition for a referendum, provided they act within 45 days. Either side, the mayor explained, can call for a referendum.

People living in the areas outside the corporation always ask, "What will we gain?" the mayor observed.

The answer to this, he said, is that these people will get local police protection, street lights, street improvements and maintenance, and the right to participate in local government, which affects everyone. In some outlying sections, Mayor Burns points out, people now are paying more for their street lights alone than they would be required to pay in local taxes.

Residents of the town likewise ask, "What do we have to gain by taking in these outlying areas and increasing our cost of government?" Mayor Burns said it is important that the town show some signs of growth. In efforts to obtain small industries for Lonaconing, he said, one of the problems is that few industrial engineers and plant location men will show any consideration to towns under 4,000 population.

Better Chance For Industry

By annexation, he stated, the corporate population figure would come close to 4,000 and with industry all over the country dispersing to small communities, Lonaconing would stand a better chance of acquiring one or more small plants.

He also said problems of sewage, sanitation, fire protection, insurance rates and other items are more readily solved for a large single group than for 10 or 11 small units.

Mayor Burns is optimistic about the outcome. He noted that a survey conducted by Calvin James, town clerk, and James Baker of the Municipal Technical Advisory Service at College Park, indicate that annexation is a progressive step and in the long run should prove beneficial to all concerned.

Further discussion is expected at the next council meeting September 9.

Route 40 Job Is Completed By Local Firm

Teer Is Declared Low On 2d Phase

The first contract toward the relocation of U. S. 40 over Town Hill and Green Ridge has been accepted by the Maryland State Roads Commission and steps have been set in motion to award the second contract.

The S. T. Brotemarkle Company here recently completed the relocation of the highway between Watson Road and Mountain Road, a distance of 4.334 miles, under a $668,371 contract.

The project was accepted by the State Roads Commission on July 19, according to John D. Bushby, District 6 engineer.

The Nello L. Teer contracting firm of Durham, N. C., has been notified that it is the low bidder on the contract to grade and drain a dual highway on relocated U. S. 40 from Mountain Road to Davis Road.

Submits Documents

The firm submitted a bid of $2,755,364.43 for the contract which will be the Green Ridge section of the relocation project.

The firm is presently submitting contract documents to the SRC in connection with the bid.

The 3.211 miles of new highway will contain a 132-foot cut, the second deepest cut in the state, will have the deepest fill of any Maryland highway and will include the longest box culvert in the state system.

Twin three-span bridges over Fifteen-Mile Creek are also included.

Mr. Bushby said the SRC expects to begin paving the relocated sections of Route 40 next spring.

Is Low Bidder

The Cumberland Contracting Company has been notified that it was low bidder on a contract for resurfacing 6.2 miles of two area highways.

The local firm bid $54,000 for resurfacing Route 49, the Braddock Road, 2.5 miles westerly from the city limits to Route 40, and for resurfacing U. S. Route 220 from the city line to the Maryland-Pennsylvania line.

The company is in the process of submitting contract documents to the State Roads Commission.

State Contends Fired Teachers Have No Claim

BALTIMORE (AP)—Four English teachers fired from Frostburg State College were merely on probation and have no valid claim to reinstatement, state lawyers contended Thursday.

They asked Circuit Court Judge J. Gilbert Prendergast to quash a suit filed by the four to regain their jobs.

Prendergast said he would rule on the state's motion "as soon as possible," perhaps within a few days.

In a suit asking the court to direct their reinstatement, the teachers — Dr. Edmund G. Skellings, Francis L. Ireland, John Cole and Norris L. Merchant Jr.— contended they were dismissed illegally, without proper hearing and in violation of principles of academic freedom.

During a long dispute over their dismissal, the teachers have contended they were fired because of their "liberal" ideas and desire to use controversial novels in their classes.

R. Bowen Hardesty, president of the college, has responded that Merchant was not doing graduate work and that the other three men were "immature."

Franklin Goldstein, assistant attorney general, told Judge Prendergast the teachers had been hired under contracts making clear that they were on probation. They were notified March 28 that they would not be retained on the faculty.

Suit Settled For $5,250

A damage suit which resulted from a fatal highway accident October 6, 1961 near Lonaconing, has been settled out of Allegany County Circuit Court.

The suit was filed by Jeannette Miller through Lottie Stowell, her grandmother, of Westernport, against the plaintiff's sisters, Marilyn C. Miller of Barton, driver of the car which went out of control on Maryland Route 36 south of Lonaconing and rammed a utility pole.

A settlement of $5,250 was reached between the two parties, according to Lee C. Barnett, and Paul Barnett, attorneys who represented the plaintiff. A total of $15,000 had been sought in the suit.

Killed in the accident was Barbara Kidwell, 17, of Westernport. Six others including the driver were injured in the one-car crash.

When tried in Trial Magistrates Court by Paul Barnett, Miss Miller was found not guilty of manslaughter but was fined on a charge of reckless driving.

Zoning Board Defers Action On Apartments

Turns Down Bid For Home Permit

The Board of Zoning Appeals last night deferred action on an application for an apartment project in the North End and disapproved an application for a home.

The application of the Atlas Allegany Homes, Inc., to build four apartment buildings on lots on Holland Street and Sylvan Avenue was held over for investigation at the suggestion of James C. Gardner, chairman.

He told the delegation attending the hearing that the board will try to expedite its decision but that it would not be reached that night.

About two dozen residents of the Holland Street area attended the hearing to protest the construction of the apartment houses in the residential area devoted largely to one-story homes.

Speaking for the project was James W. Balderston, president, who said plans call for the construction of four two-story dwellings, each designed for four families.

Will Check Space

Two of the buildings would be located on a 112-by-173-foot lot facing Holland Street, and the others on a 200-by-124-foot lot on Sylvan Avenue.

During the early stage of the hearing, Mr. Gardner noted that the report of the building engineer indicates the plan contains sufficient open space.

This was disputed by Hunter B. Helfrich, former city commissioner, and the board asked for his figures so the issue could be settled.

Mr. Helfrich submitted a petition signed by 51 residents of the area and protesting the development.

The board made it clear it will insist that sufficient yard space is provided. He said the board will also have to decide whether the design for the apartment project is congenial with the neighborhood.

Mr. Helfrich cited a number of objections to the apartments which would put 16 families in the limited space.

He said the area lacks water pressure, that the additional units would create a fire hazard, that sewer lines are inadequate for present dwellings and pop manholes during heavy rains, and that parking facilities are not available for 16 more families.

Permit Disapproved

He said residents of the area have developed a nice neighborhood and feel that an apartment development would complicate the way of life there, and that plans do not provide enough ground.

The board disapproved the application of Thomas L. Popp, 231 North Lee Street, to build a one-story home on an odd-shaped lot at the intersection of Edgevale and Glenmore streets.

Inadequate space on the lot was cited by the board in turning down the occupancy permit.

Forest Exhibit Is Popular

Many exhibits of interest to patrons of the 46th annual Cumberland Fair are being shown this week at Fairgo although the entry of the Maryland Department of Forests and Parks seems to stand out.

The exhibit, near the Jockey Club, is amid cool pine trees and accentuates the real loss caused by forest fires, not only to the potential lumber supply and to the soil through erosion, but also to wildlife.

After the purpose of the exhibit was explained to two cute little blonde girls, one of them said, "I believe I like it when there isn't no forest fires."

Products of the forest for everyday use, tree fruits and edible nuts are in the exhibit, which includes a cross-section of a chestnut oak, believed to have started growing in 1610, over 350 years ago. The tree was cut recently at Piney Dam on the Frostburg watershed.

A cross-section of other trees also is in the display, and there is a piece of petrified wood for those who wonder what it looks like.

Pictures on a large bulletin board show timber stand improvement practices.

Man Faces Jury Trial In Assault

Robert O'Neal, 26, Released On Bond

A young Cresaptown man was released on $1,000 bond yesterday to await a jury trial on charges of assaulting a State Police officer, resisting arrest and disturbing the peace.

The man, Robert O'Neal, 26, was taken before Magistrate Leslie J. Clark and State's Attorney James S. Getty prayed a jury trial on all charges against the Cresaptown man.

Bonds on all three charges totaled $1,000 for O'Neal's appearance in Allegany County Circuit Court.

O'Neal was arrested Wednesday evening following a disturbance at the office of Magistrate Thomas G. Barton in Cresaptown.

O'Neal was charged with assaulting Trooper Paul J. Fiorita and resisting arrest by Trooper Fiorita. Sgt. Charles H. DeWitt of the State Police assisted in the arrest.

Mr. Getty said he prayed the jury in the case because the charge of assaulting a police officer is a serious one.

PE Is Ordered To Lower Rates In Maryland

To Be 13th Major Cut In 30 Years

By GEORGE BOWEN

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Public Service Commission ruled Thursday that Potomac Edison Co. has been charging its Maryland customers more for electricity than justified for a reasonable profit.

The commission for the first time in its 53-year existence ordered a utility to reduce its rates temporarily.

It gave Potomac 30 days to submit for approval a lower schedule that would reduce its revenue by the equivalent of $850,000 a year.

Approximately 88,000 customers in Garrett, Allegany, Washington, Frederick and parts of Montgomery and Carroll counties will benefit.

The temporary, lower rates would prevail until the PSC holds a full-fledged hearing, probably next year, on determination of a new permanent schedule.

Cites Earnings

It acted Thursday after brief testimony by two witnesses.

Thomas E. Cosgrove Jr., chief auditor for the PSC, said that according to his calculations based on Company reports, PE's rate of return on its investment averaged more than 8 per cent for the past five years.

He said he figured that on the basis of the utility's return of 6½ per cent fixed by the commission, it earned an excess of $1 million last year.

The excess earnings, Cosgrove said, were despite a voluntary reduction in rates made in 1960 by Potomac after an audit by the PSC.

Allan M. Creed, comptroller for the utility, argued that about a dozen adjustments, not considered by the PSC auditor, should be made in determining the percentage of earned income.

Creed said if these figures were allowed, the utility's rate of return would be only 6.6 per cent, within what he called the zone of tolerance.

Hearing Slated

However, in less than half an hour of private consultation, the three-member commission announced through Chairman Albert L. Sklar that Potomac was charging "higher than just and reasonable rates."

Sklar said a temporary reduction was necessary "in the interest of justice" since there will be

Route 40 Job Is Completed By Local Firm

Teer Is Declared Low On 2d Phase

The first contract toward the relocation of U. S. 40 over Town Hill and Green Ridge has been accepted by the Maryland State Roads Commission and steps have been set in motion to award the second contract.

The S. T. Brotemarkle Company here recently completed the relocation of the highway between Watson Road and Mountain Road, a distance of 4.334 miles, under a $668,371 contract.

The project was accepted by the State Roads Commission on July 19, according to John D. Bushby, District 6 engineer.

The Nello L. Teer contracting firm of Durham, N. C., has been notified that it is the low bidder on the contract to grade and drain a dual highway on relocated U. S. 40 from Mountain Road to Davis Road.

Submits Documents

The firm submitted a bid of $2,755,364.43 for the contract which will be the Green Ridge section of the relocation project.

The firm is presently submitting contract documents to the SRC in connection with the bid.

The 3.211 miles of new highway will contain a 132-foot cut, the second deepest cut in the state, will have the deepest fill of any Maryland highway and will include the longest box culvert in the state system.

Twin three-span bridges over Fifteen-Mile Creek are also included.

Mr. Bushby said the SRC expects to begin paving the relocated sections of Route 40 next spring.

Is Low Bidder

The Cumberland Contracting Company has been notified that it was low bidder on a contract for resurfacing 6.2 miles of two area highways.

The local firm bid $54,000 for resurfacing Route 49, the Braddock Road, 2.5 miles westerly from the city limits to Route 40, and for resurfacing U. S. Route 220 from the city line to the Maryland-Pennsylvania line.

The company is in the process of submitting contract documents to the State Roads Commission.

State Contends Fired Teachers Have No Claim

BALTIMORE (AP)—Four English teachers fired from Frostburg State College were merely on probation and have no valid claim to reinstatement, state lawyers contended Thursday.

They asked Circuit Court Judge J. Gilbert Prendergast to quash a suit filed by the four to regain their jobs.

Prendergast said he would rule on the state's motion "as soon as possible," perhaps within a few days.

In a suit asking the court to direct their reinstatement, the teachers — Dr. Edmund G. Skellings, Francis L. Ireland, John Cole and Norris L. Merchant Jr.— contended they were dismissed illegally, without proper hearing and in violation of principles of academic freedom.

During a long dispute over their dismissal, the teachers have contended they were fired because of their "liberal" ideas and desire to use controversial novels in their classes.

R. Bowen Hardesty, president of the college, has responded that Merchant was not doing graduate work and that the other three men were "immature."

Franklin Goldstein, assistant attorney general, told Judge Prendergast the teachers had been hired under contracts making clear that they were on probation. They were notified March 28 that they would not be retained on the faculty.

Suit Settled For $5,250

A damage suit which resulted from a fatal highway accident October 6, 1961 near Lonaconing, has been settled out of Allegany County Circuit Court.

The suit was filed by Jeannette Miller through Lottie Stowell, her grandmother, of Westernport, against the plaintiff's sisters, Marilyn C. Miller of Barton, driver of the car which went out of control on Maryland Route 36 south of Lonaconing and rammed a utility pole.

A settlement of $5,250 was reached between the two parties, according to Lee C. Barnett, and Paul Barnett, attorneys who represented the plaintiff. A total of $15,000 had been sought in the suit.

Killed in the accident was Barbara Kidwell, 17, of Westernport. Six others including the driver were injured in the one-car crash.

When tried in Trial Magistrates Court by Paul Barnett, Miss Miller was found not guilty of manslaughter but was fined on a charge of reckless driving.
